Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

Washington, Thursday, April 19.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER.

The publication of the President's letter to Gov. Walker, has produced a great excitement here, and the language used by Attorney-General Black to Mr. Schnabel, touching the letter, resulted in a challenge to-day from Gov. Walker, Hon. Albert G. Brown being the bearer; but Judge Black refuses to fight. The President charges the publication of this bombshell document to the imprudent language of the Attorney-General, and a change in the Cabinet is already spoken of. The result has been another rise in Douglas stock.

TROUBLE IN THE CAMP.

The Massachusetts delegation is in trouble. After arriving in Washington it ascertained that Gen. Whitney was using his patronage as Collector of Boston against Mr. Douglas. It was shown that Gen. Whitney was elected after giving a written pledge for Mr. Douglas, and to secure the Collectorship repledged himself against him. Documents were produced, and the result is that Gen. Whitney will be left almost alone in his glory.

THE CONVENTION.

Most of the delegates have left us, and the city is comparatively dull.

The House will follow the example of the Senate and adjourn from time to time, without transacting any business, after to-morrow.

THE CORRUPTION INVESTIGATION.

Mr. Van Dyke was not before the Covode Committee to-day, but expects to be called to-morrow. The witnesses called testified to corruption in the binding contracts. The petitioner's bid was submitted to the Attorney-General by the President, but with a private note that no opinion was desired.

THE TREATIES.

A caucus of the Republican Senators to-day, resulted in an agreement to support the Nicaraguan Treaty, with an amendment guarding the use of troops by Congressional legislation. The ratification of the treaty may be considered a fixed fact.

THE TEXAN REGIMENT BILL.

The Texan Regiment bill passed to-day by three majority, but a motion to reconsider is pending; so that the matter is still unsettled.

THE APPROACHING ECLIPSE OF THE SUN.

A total eclipse of the sun will take place next July, and Lieut. Gilliss, U. S. N., is to take observations in Labrador. Arrangements have been made to take simultaneous observations on the Pacific coast. The War Department has been desirous to take advantage of the probable presence of the expedition for the exploration of the Yellow Stone River, commanded by Capt. W. F. Reynolds, of the Topographical Engineers, near the belt of total obscuration at the time of the eclipse, to have observations made in the interior of the continent, and as that belt is north of our Territory, and in the British possessions, application has been made to Lord Lyons for permission for a Government party to enter the British territory for the above purpose. Lord Lyons has replied, signifying in courteous terms the assent of his Government to the proposition. If the observations can be made the results will be exceedingly interesting, and will afford excellent determinations for longitudes, at present but imperfectly known.

ARMY NEWS.

The War Department to-day issued the following important general orders:

First—The especial attention of Department Commanders is directed to paragraph 170 of General Regulations. Second—Paragraph 172 is amended by adding to the last sentence the following: "The term of extension approved by the Department Commander will be regulated by season and the usual opportunities for reaching the officer's station, so that he may not be absent during the time for active operations." Third—The War department will not grant leave to officers on applications made out of the proper military channel, or longer extensions of leave than are recommended by competent authority. Fourth—Paragraphs 179 and 180 of the general regulations, are hereby modified so as to conform to the following: Leaves of absence on account of sickness will not be granted to officers to go beyond the limits of the military department within which they are stationed, unless the certificate of the medical officer shall explicitely state that a greater change is necessary to save life, or prevent permanent disability. Nor will sick leaves to go beyond the department limits be given in any case, except of immediate urgency, without the previous sanction of the War Department. On the expiration of leave of absence given on account of sickness, if the officer be able to travel, he will forthwith proceed to his post, although his disability may not have been removed. Exceptions to this general rule must be made in each case by the War Department on full and explicit medical certificates, setting forth the reasons for delay, and the length of time the delay is considered necessary.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

The Committee on Foreign Relations are very busily engaged upon some important matters with the English Government, especially that in relation to the rights of Naturalized American Citizens abroad. The Senate Committee, in order to facilitate the deliberations of the House Committee, have furnished copies of the President's communication upon the subject, addressed to the Senate. This question involves many interesting points which enter into and make up a part of our political canvasses. The consideration of it will therefore be conducted with great care. They have also the French Spoliation bill, our relations with Mexico, and propositions to facilitate commercial communication and operations in the West Indies and on the Gulf Coast.

THE INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE.

Mr. Covode's Committee does not seem to get on rapidly in its process of investigation, its time being for the most part occupied by preliminary matters. The process by which this Committee receded from its position in attempting to compel Mr. Schell to exhibit private letters and papers, is amusing, and deserves commemoration. When Mr. Covode discovered that he was committing the very same blunder that the Senate committed in its attempt to compel the attendance of John Brown, Jr., and Sanborn, of Massachusetts, without the proper authority and process, by a sudden coup d'etat, he saved himself by a motion to recommit the matter to the Committee. We have waited long for its reappearance in the House, but the Committee has concluded, so far as we can learn, to allow it to remain recommitted. Schell has the best of it thus far.

SEATS IN THE HOUSE.

Inasmuch as the Senate has agreed to adjourn three days at a time to accommodate the Charleston Convention, there seems to be a prevalent opinion that the House ought to do the same thing to accommodate those who wish to be absent, but especially to permit the proposed change of seats in the Representatives Hall. The present seats are so uncomfortable now, that when the weather becomes warmer they will be intolerable. The ventilation must also undergo some change, as the House will be compelled to adjourn soon in order that the work may be done. The practice of recognizing political conventions by adjournment is very unpopular, but this is a peculiar case.

CONTESTED SEATS.

Mr. Campbell, of Pennsylvania, is expected to support the report of the majority of the Committee of Electors in favor of Mr. Howard, of Michigan, vs. Cooper, with Mr. Howard also in behalf of his own case. Mr. Marston, of New-Hampshire, will manage the case of Blair vs. Barrett, of Missouri, and Mr. Dawes the case of Williamson vs. Sickles. All these gentlemen are eminent lawyers, and with Messrs. Stratton, of New-Jersey, and McKnight, of Pennsylvania, all Republicans, make up the majority of that committee.

Q.

From the Associated Press.

Washington, Thursday, April 19.

The Senate to-day confirmed the appointment of Frank E. Wooten, as Secretary of State for Utah.

The Committee on Elections have reported in favor of Mr. Howard, and against Cooper, the sitting member, in the Michigan contested case. Messrs. Gartrell, Stevenson and Boyce unite in the minority report.

This completes the hundredth day the House has been in actual session. There is no doubt, from present indications, that a quorum will be present during the next week. As much, however, cannot be said of the Senate, many of its members having already left the city.

Nearly all the Republicans voted against the Senate's amendment appropriating nearly $100,000,000 to enable the President to call into service a regiment of Texas mounted volunteers. Messrs. Carter, Curtis, Junkin, Morris of Pennsylvania, and Schwartz voted with the Democrats and Southern opposition in its favor.

SENATE.

Washington, Thursday, April 19.

Mr. King, of New-York, (Rep.,) stated that the Senate Printing Investigation Committee was ready to report, and moved the printing of two thousand extra copies of the testimony. Adopted.

The report is extremely voluminous, embodying full minutes of all the evidence taken. The more important testimony is subjoined.

THE PRINTING INVESTIGATION.

TESTIMONY OF CORNELIUS WENDELL.

We have received a very voluminous report of the testimony taken before this Committee, a very large portion of which is of little general interest. We can only give, this morning, a few of the most pointed extracts.

Cornelius Wendell was examined, and testified at considerable length to the fact that he was directed by the President, personally, to pay very large sums out of his receipts for the public printing to sustain Democratic newspapers in Washington and Philadelphia. We give the following passage from his testimony:

Tuesday, Jan. 31, 1860.

Cornelius Wendell sworn and examined.

Question.—Mr. Wendell, who was chosen printer to the Senate at the last Congress? Answer.—William A. Harris.

Q.—And who for the House of Representatives? A.—James B Steedman

Q.—Who executed the printing? A.—I did, Sir.

Q.—Who executed the printing for the Executive Department? A.—I did, Sir.

Q.—Will you state how you came to execute the printing? A.—By an agreement with Messrs. Harris and Steedman; and a portion of the Executive, which was under the control of the Executive Department.

Q.—Mr. Wendell, do you know of any moneys having been paid for the use of the newspaper here called the Constitution, or for the Philadelphia Argus, or the Pennsylvanian, out of the earnings of the public printing? A.—Yes, Sir; my impression is that there was an agreement in writing with the Pennsylvanian; I am not positive, but I think there was; there was none for the Philadelphia Argus; I was the owner of the Constitution myself until March last.

Q.—Has there been any money paid for the use of the Constitution since you ceased to manage it? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—Do you know of any other moneys paid by the party who executed the public printing, for other uses, at the request of any officer of the Government, for other purposes than the newspapers that have been mentioned? A.—I have paid a good deal of money for party purposes myself.

Q.—Were you required to do so, or called upon to do so? A.—I cannot say that I was, any further than as a partisan; suppose, as I had an unbounded amount of money, and being willing to spend it for the party, I was asked to do so; but never imperatively directed.

Q.—Whom were you called upon by? A.—Their name was legion.

ABOUT THE PURCHASE OF THE UNION—HOW IT WAS PAID FOR.

Friday, Feb. 3, 1860.

Examination of Mr. Wendell resumed:

Q.—Who was the Superintendent of Public Printing? A.—George W. Bowman.

Q. Did he continue to hold that office during his whole term? A.—No, Sir; he resigned on the 12th of May, 1859.

Q.—Do you know who succeeded him in office? A.—John Heart, who now holds the office.

Q.—Have you the contract of which you spoke before? A.—One of them.

The witness exhibited the following paper:

Washington, March 26, 1859.

Gentlemen: You were consulted by us concerning the transfer which has this day been made between us of the Union newspaper. You know the views and expectations which influenced us on both sides. While we do not contemplate the slightest difficulty, yet it is possible that some collision of interest, or some difficulty of opinion concerning our rights or duties, may hereafter arise. In that event, we have agreed to leave all questions between us to your arbitrament, and your decision shall be binding and conclusive upon us both. If you shall differ, you may choose some third person as an umpire. It is, as you know, understood between us, that the purchaser of the Union shall not be a competitor with the seller for any portion of the Executive work now done by Mr. Wendell at his large office, but that Mr. Bowman shall receive at the rate of twenty thousand dollars per annum so long as Wendell continues to do the work as he does it now, but no longer. If the work aforesaid be withdrawn from Wendell, his obligation to pay this twenty thousand dollars shall cease. If any considerable portion is withdrawn, it will be for you to decide whether Wendell's payment shall cease, or in what proportion it shall continue.

We are, very respectfully, your obedient servants,

C. WENDELL,
GEO. W. BOWMAN.

Messrs. A. O. P. Nicholson and J. S. Black.

By the Chairman:

Q.—These are the signatures of yourself and Mr. Bowman? A.—They are, Sir

Q.—Will you state to the Committee what occurred at or about the time of this transfer in relation to the public printing, and the payments made by you out of its proceeds? A.—About the close of the last Congress I was very desirous to make some change in the condition of the paper and the performance of the public printing, and I made a proposition to give the paper to the Administration, to place it at the disposal of the Administration, offering to contribute from the profits of the work $10,000 per annum to support it—I mean from the profits of the work at the disposal of the President. I made the proposition to the President direct. After some considerable negotiation, the transfer was made. This paper was written to express our views and sentiments, and Mr. Bowman took possession—the amount being increased from $10,000 to $20,000 per annum, as is expressed in that stipulation.

Q.—At whose suggestion was the amount increased? A.—Not at mine; it came from some gentlemen connected with the Administration. The views and expectations which influenced us on both sides were that Mr. Bowman would be elected Printer to Congress, or at least to the Senate, and that I should do the printing, receiving a greater portion of the emoluments therefrom as remuneration for the paper. I paid him on the 11th day of April, $5,000 on account of the $20,000. For three of the $5,000 I have a receipt; the other $2,000 he declined receipting for, because it was to go to Mr. Baker, Collector of the port of Philadelphia, as the agent of the Pennsylvanian in Philadelphia, as I understood—which money I paid through a friend to him.

Q.—To Bowman or to Baker? A.—I cannot say whether to Bowman or Baker. I think the money went to a creditor of the Pennsylvanian. That, however, I do not know. Mr. Megargee, of Philadelphia, was the friend through whom I paid the money. The stipulation, it will be observed, requires me to pay George W. Bowman $20,000 per annum. I was informed that one half of the amount was to go to the Pennsylvanian. During the year I gave him orders, as per his receipt to me, to the amount of $6,306 20.

Q.—When was the Union transferred to the possession of Mr. Bowman. A.—It appears by this agreement that it was March 26, 1859.

Q.—Was Mr. Bowman Superintendent of Public Printing when this arrangement was made with him? A.—He was.

Q.—Are the prices of public printing fixed by law? A.—Yes, Sir; by the law of 1852.

Q.—In doing the work, were you to receive that amount; and out of that to pay these sums? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—Whether they were profits or not, made no difference? A.—Not at all.

Q.—At whose request or suggestion was the sum raised from $10,000 to $20,000? A.—I cannot state whether it was Judge Black or Mr. Bowman. About the time of the transfer, the Philadelphia people were anxious, and the collector was down here, if I remember right, and I have the impression that it was at his instigation. He stood god-father for the Pennsylvanian. I allude to Mr. Baker.

AGENCY OF THE PRESIDENT.

Q.—You made this proposition, of $10,000, to the President? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—Was the President a party to these conversations and consultations? A.—I made the first proposition in writing through Judge Nicholson, who had been a partner of mine, or I of his. He was formerly, gentlemen will remember, Printer to the Senate. I had been his business man during the whole of his connection with the printing. I had purchased his half of the Union; and through him I opened negotiations with the President, which were consummated by Judge Black on behalf of Bowman. I had little, if any, conversation with Bowman. I do not remember any until we went to sign these papers.

Q.—You said the proposition was in writing? A.—Yes, Sr.

Q.—To whom was it addressed? A.—I think to the President.

Q.—Then he was a party to this transaction? A.—In so far as commencing negotiations. Subsequent conversations were held mainly with Judge Black and Hon. John Appleton.

PARTIES INTERESTED IN THE PUBLIC PRINTING.

Q.—Besides Mr. Steedman, who were interested in the public printing? A.—I know no one officially but him; but I heard that there were some three or four.

Q.—Will you state who they were? A.—Mr. A. D. Banks was the principal one. Mr. McLean, of the Cincinnati Enquirer, told me he was; and I have paid him some money I think. Judge Walker, of New Orleans, told me that he was interested.

Q.—Anybody else? A.—These three gentlemen, as far as my memory goes, were the only ones. There was one other gentleman, who had withdrawn from being a candidate for the office of doorkeeper, I believe, on the consideration that he should receive something; and I understand that he did receive something. Another gentleman, of the name of Martin, told me that he was to have a small amount for services.

Q.—What were those services. A.—Electioneering, I suppose.

Q.—What sums have you paid to the parties elected or having the right to execute this public printing as a consideration for executing it yourself, and receiving the prices fixed by law? A.—I think $49,000 odd to Mr. Steedman; I think $28,000 to Mr. Harris; $20,000 I was to give him; but the aggregate from the time he came in the Union newspaper up to March was more. My stipulation with him was made after his election.

Q.—And what was the amount for the Executive? A.—The Executive printing was a matter of contest between the two printers.

Q.—Have these sums been paid? A.—I am indebted to Harris in consequence of not getting my payments, the appropriation having run out.

Q.—The arrangement with Bowman, then, was for the present Congress, and not the last? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—What other sums of money other than these two have you been called upon to pay; or have you paid? A.—I paid to Mr. Rice, of the Pennsylvanian, under an arrangement with him, $11,198 57, besides the two sums you have mentioned.

Q.—Any other sums, Mr. Wendell? A.—To Mr. Severns, of the Philadelphia Argus, rising $5,000. The total charge is $7 150, but a portion of that was not directly for the Argus. Those may be considered by the direction of the Executive.

Q.—Do you say, to the Argus, by direction of the Executive. A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—I thought I understood you, the other day, to say that there was no compulsion exercised upon you to pay; but you considered you were, to a certain extent, bound to give to the Argus? A.—Under the arrangement with Rice; allow me to say that Rice obtained the contract, and then Severns and his friends claimed a part, and I was directed to reduce the amount to Rice and pay an amount to Severns.

Q.—Who directed you? A.—The Executive.

Q.—Whom do you mean by the Executive? A.—James Buchanan.

Mr. Slidell—You said you had no conversation with him. A.—That is in relation to the printing.

Q.—Was this done verbally and personally? A.—Personally. There was a contest between Mr. Bigler and Col. Florence about it.

Q.—On what was this claim based? A.—Party, I presume; its editor having been removed from an office.

Q.—Is it proper to inquire what party? I will make the inquiry: what party? A.—The Democratic Party proper.

Q.—Were those papers all supporting the Administration? A.—Yes, Sir; I think they did. I was not a reader of the papers, but they were understood to be.

Q.—Did you pay any other sums? A.—None that I considered obligatory upon me to pay, Sir.

Q.—Did you consider it necessary for you to pay these sums as a condition on which the printing was to be continued in your hands?

Witness—To the papers?

Mr. King—Yes, Sir.

Witness—Most certainly I did. That I have answered before. I have contributed towards the expenses of the party other sums, but none that I considered to have reference to my obtaining or retaining the work.

Q.—Now, I want to ask you when you had this conversation with the President in relation to the substitution of the Argus? A.—I cannot tell. I was in the habit of seeing the President almost daily. He never went into details. He would say: "Well, now settle it."

Q.—At these conversations with the President who were present? A.—On some occasions Mr. Bigler, I think, was present.

Q.—You had no private conversation I suppose; there was no mystery about it? A.—Sometimes some of the parties interested would be there. I should have a demand made upon me, and I should say to the President that I was called upon in this way: and he would say, "Well, settle it." He did not wish to be troubled with it. I do not wish to be understood as saying that the President said, "Wendell, if you do not do this I will do that;" but I have seen enough to take a hint.

Q.—Did the President send for you about this printing? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—What was the subject? A.—I think this card was the subject; or an attack upon him in relation to it.

Q.—Did he ask you, or suggest to you, that you should write that card? A.—Not personally, Sir.

Q.—Then you never had a conversation with him on the subject of that card, I believe? A.—No, Sir; but allow me to state that Mr. Baker did ask me, and said that the President wished him to ask me. May I state more about this card? Gentlemen, about September—sometime in the month of September—I suggested the stoppage of the payment to the Pennsylvanian, on my own volition, believing that the money was thrown away there; I stopped it; I had two reasons for it—one was I wanted some of the profits myself, for I was running into difficulties, and I thought I was entitled to some of the profits; I suggested it to the President, and without his direction I stopped it; he did not direct this stoppage; he did not direct it to be done, nor dissent; he would say, this whole subject of the printing is a source of annoyance to me; do as you please; I suspended the payment, and Mr. Rice, of course, was highly indignant, and he made divers statements, which were caught up by the reporters, and this attack was made; Mr. Baker told me the President wished me to make this statement; he brought it to me already written, and I signed it; it was, and is true, in every particular; I will read it:

"My attention has been called to a paragraph in a letter to the New-York Times of the 9th instant, in vague and general terms, that the President had caused certain money, justly due to some individual, to be used for electioneering purposes." He never did. "With this accusation my own name has been so generally connected in conversation that I feel constrained, publicly and emphatically, to deny all knowledge or belief of any fact which can warrant it, and to declare that President Buchanan never did authorize, advise, or request me, directly or indirectly, to use either my own money or that of any other person, for purposes like that mentioned in the paragraph referred to, or in any manner affecting any public election."

That is all true. What I did was of my own volition. I thought the money could be better applied to partisan purposes, and I took the responsibility.

PUBLIC MONEY USED TO SUSTAIN THE KNOW-NOTHING PARTY.

Sylvester J. Megargee examined:

Question.—Mr. Megargee, did you write to Mr. Wendell, in reply to a telegraphic dispatch from him, that you would draw on him for $2,000? Answer.—I have written him, Sir.

Q.—To whom was the telegraphic dispatch directed to which you replied? A.—I really had a great many telegraphic dispatches from Mr. Wendell; I was shown a telegraphic dispatch from Mr. Wendell, and I told the gentleman who called upon me that I would attend to it.

Q.—You speak of a particular dispatch for the sum of $2,000? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—Who was the dispatch directed to? Who showed it to you? A.—Dr. Morwitz showed it to me.

Q.—With whom did you consult as to what should be done with it? A.—I consulted with Dr. Morwitz only.

Q.—Did you draw for the amount? A.—I did, Sir, and the draft was accepted and paid, and the amount was carried to my credit, less the exchange.

Q.—What did you do with the money? A.—I put it in an envelope and handed it to Mr. Baker.

Q.—Did you take a receipt for it? A.—I did not, Sir

Q.—Were you requested to do so? A.—I was told to take a receipt for it.

Q.—Did you receive any money for political purposes in Pennsylvania or New-Jersey from Mr. Wendell?

Witness—Am I really compelled to answer such questions?

Mr. Kennedy—I think it is within the scope of the inquiry.

[The Committee thought the question was a proper one, and that it should be answered.]

A.—I did, Sir, receive money at various times for political purposes.

Q.—Were those moneys expended for the promotion of the interests of the Democratic party? A.—Not all of them; some of it was used for a third party, which was organized to divert votes from what was known as "the People's party" with us; the "People's party" was in opposition to the Democratic party; we did not know there the party organized as "the Republican party;" the opposition to the Democratic party was called "the People's party," and to divert votes from that party the third party was organized; the object was to divide the "People's party."

Q.—Was such a third party organized? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—Did you believe that was necessary to the success of the Democratic party? A.—We certainly did, or we should not have given them the money.

Q.—What was that third party called? A.—The straight American party—the straight-outs.

Q.—You speak both of Pennsylvania and New-Jersey? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—And of those States only? A.—Yes, Sir; of those only.

Q.—Have you any idea of the amount that you furnished for party purposes? A.—I really could not say.

Q.—Could you approximate to the sum? A.—Some thousands of dollars.

Q.—Will you name some number of thousands as near the amount as you can come? A.—I negotiated notes and drafts to the amount, probably, of $4,000 or $5,000 that I understood were for party purposes, but that does not include the $2,000; I did not understand that the $2,000 were for operations in party elections, but for the papers.

MR. WENDELL OBJECTS TO BEING LEFT OUT IN THE COLD.

Q.—You sued Bowman? A.—I have; I have no idea of being robbed of my paper, and then being set out in the cold by Mr. Buchanan, Mr. Bowman or anybody else.

Q.—Mr. Wendell, how much a year do you suppose you have contributed? A.—I think during the past four years I have contributed, directly or indirectly, $100,000.

Q.—What do you mean by indirectly; I suppose part of that sum went to the support of the Union? A.—Yes, Sir. I mean that that amount has been paid out of the profits of my office. If a clever fellow was running for Congress, and wanted $500, and I had it, I could not help giving it; but the exact amount I could not tell.

Q.—But without this public printing you would not have been able to do it? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—You stated that you had been in the habit of contributing to elections, and you have mentioned some Districts; have you contributed in any other? A.—Yes, Sir; I have one item on my books of $1,500, which I contributed in New-York; I have also contributed in New-Jersey.

Q.—Were you so kind towards Maryland? A.—Occasionally I have.

Q.—Who called upon you? A.—I think Mr. Thomas, who is pretty active in elections; he sent over here a message that money was wanted; but these were small amounts; I think the highest I ever gave was a couple of hundred dollars at one time.

Q.—You spoke of sums spent in New-York; what other Districts did you contribute to? A.—I went up the river, and, among others, I contributed to Mr. Nevin's District; I contributed wherever I thought a little good could be done.

C. WENDELL.

PUBLISHING POLITICAL NEWSPAPERS A BAD BUSINESS.

William Rice examined:

Q.—You were the publisher of the Pennsylvanian? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—Are you now? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—What disposition did you make of it? I think you said you sold it. A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—For how much? A.—I was to get $10,000 for it; but I did not get it; printing political newspapers is bad business.

Q.—With reference to the Pennsylvanian, I ask you what was its value, and what did it produce to its publisher? A.—I sank money upon it all times; sometimes we had the Sheriff of the city, and it helped us along.

Mr. King—Be pleased to be a little more explicit.

Witness—We had the patronage of the Sheriff; I had his patronage three years, and the patronage of the city two years, from 1853 to 1858; I mean the advertising patronage.

Q.—Then the ordinary business of a newspaper did not give it support? A.—No, Sir; the people in our State will not support a Democratic paper.

Q.—Nor the city? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—When you sold it for $10,000 had the purchaser any expectation of receiving those Post office blanks? A.—That I cannot say.

Q.—How came a purchaser to buy a paper for $10,000 that was losing all the time? A.—It was a political machine, and it was used for political objects.

Q.—Then this was a political paper? A.—It was a political machine.

Q.—I wish to ask you a question as to the amount of this Post-Office printing, and where it went to? A.—Wendell collected $20,000 up to July, 1858, and he collected some $1,000 for the other six months.

Q.—Of that sum you received how much? A.—Ten thousand dollars.

Q.—What disposition was made of the other? A.—I do not know.

Q.—Do you not know from the parties who divided it? A.—I had no communication with the Argus, which got some of it. It was enough for me to know that they obtained it.

WM. RICE.

The House bill, supplementary to the act for taking the census, was reported back from the Judiciary Committee, and passed.

Mr. Bayard, of Delaware, (Dem.,) reported a bill from the Judiciary Committee for taking private property for public uses and allowing just compensation therefor, and it was taken up and discussed.

Mr. Mason, of Virginia, (Dem.,) said he believed this was the first time a proposition has been made to give the Federal Government power to take land without the consent of the owner.

Mr. Wigfall, of Texas, (Dem.,) said the Federal Government had not the right of eminent domain. This has always been the doctrine of the Republican Party. He did not mean the Blacks. The bill provides that when Congress shall determine to make the purchase of any place for the erection of public buildings, &c., with the consent of the State, the President shall appoint Commissioners to fix the value, which price being paid, the property shall be held in fee by the United States. In case the owner or owners of the property are dissatisfied with the price, provision shall be made for settlement by legal proceeding.

Mr. Collamer, of Vermont, (Rep.,) said the power to erect public buildings and select the site was incidental to the power to collect revenue, &c. If, under the power to regulate commerce, Congress had power to build light houses, it must have the power to locate the site.

The Homestead bill was taken up.

Mr. Gwin, of California, (Dem.,) modified his amendment relative to legalizing the occupancy of the mineral lands, so as to exclude those who had merely declared their intention to become citizens from the benefits thereof.

Mr. Lane, of Oregon, (Dem.,) opposed this alteration. He would for himself assent to no such restriction.

Mr. Gwin withdrew his modification.

Mr. Bragg, of North Carolina, (Dem.,) opposed the amendment at some length.

Mr. Gwin rejoined, and the amendment was rejected by—Yeas, 9; Nays, 33.

Mr. Wade, of Ohio, (Rep.,) now moved to strike out all after the enacting clause and substitute the House Homestead bill.

Mr. Brown, of Mississippi, (Dem.,) proposed some verbal alterations, to which there were no objection.

Mr. Fitch, of Indiana, (Dem.,) offered an additional section to the House bill, as an amendment, granting forty acres to any soldier or sailor who may at any time have been mustered into military service, provided he was not discharged under circumstances of dishonor. The proposition was to extend the provisions of the bounty land warrant system to soldiers who had served less than fourteen days.

Mr. Wade opposed this as likely to embarrass the bill.

Mr. Fitch said he had no such intention.

Mr. Crittenden, of Kentucky, (American,) moved an amendment to the fifth section of the Senate bill, restricting the benefits conferred on persons not citizens to those who at the time of the passage of the bill are residents of the United States. He advocated his amendment at some length, and reviewed the history of past legislation upon the land system.

Mr. Johnson, of Arkansas, (Dem.,) replied to the remarks of Mr. Crittenden.

After further debate, Mr. Fitzpatrick, of Alabama, (Dem.,) moved to go into Executive session.

Mr. Johnson, of Tennessee, (Dem.,) thought if they were not prepared to act on the bill now, they never would be. He hoped the friends of the measure would press it to a final vote.

After a conversational debate, in which by common consent it was agreed to vote on the Homestead bill on Wednesday week, the bill was made the special order for that day, and the Senate went into Executive session, after which it adjourned till Monday.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Washington, Thursday, April 19.

The House went into Committee on the Senate's amendment to the Military Academy bill, authorizing the employment in Texas of mounted volunteers.

Mr. Bonham, of South Carolina, (Dem.,) referring to the disturbances in Texas, said that the mere question whether disturbances existed there or not was not the real question before the Committee. Hostilities, it would not be denied, existed between the Indians on the borders and the white settlers, from the earliest attempt at settlement. No stipulation could bind them, and the question now was—he was not referring to the Reserve Indians—was the condition of things on the borders of such character as demanded additional troops for the protection of the people? If there should be a necessity for additional troops, the next question was, what description of troops were required? It had been shown that some fifty-one men, women and children, had been killed by the Comanches within a few months past, besides an equal number carried into captivity. There was, then, a war between the whites and the Comanche Indians, and the question which presented itself was, were there a sufficient number of troops on the borders to protect the people of Texas and to keep the Indians in check? The Secretary of War has declared that the number of United States troops on the Texan frontier is insufficient, inasmuch as the majority of them are infantry, a description of troops useless in a war with the Comanches. Reference was made to the report of the Secretary of War, wherein the enrolment of a volunteer mounted Texan regiment was recommended. There were eight hundred miles of frontier to protect, extending from the Rio Grande to the country occupied by the Comanche Indians in the Winter, and the troops stationed on this frontier are totally inefficient to protect the inhabitants. Well, then comes the question how to remedy the evil, and put a stop to these hostilities, and to punish the Indians. That was the question to consider. It had been suggested that two regiments of infantry should be raised; but this plan was not the proper one. It was known that bodies of infantry were utterly unacquainted with horsemanship, and required a very long time to make them efficient as cavalry. It was now too late to mount infantry and accustom them to the use of the horse, for the Summer was at hand, the most favorable time for operations, and, if they allowed the Summer to pass, they could not operate against the Comanches this year. It was said that the Secretary of War had long withheld his recommendation for the raising of this Texan regiment. That was true; but now the necessity for checking the hostilities became so urgent that the Secretary of War had made the recommendation for a volunteer regiment in good faith. As to this charge, that volunteer regiments murdered women and children, he denied that such was the case, except in instances where it was unavoidable. In the operations of regular troops it sometimes happened that women were killed. In the gallant fight of the 13th of May, when forty or fifty Indians were killed by the troops, eight Comanche Indian women were unavoidably and unintentionally killed, though the commander of the troops upon that occasion was one of the most humane and gallant officers in the American service. If this occurred with regular troops, it was not to be wondered at if it should sometimes happen with irregular troops, especially in wars where women took part. But the Government was bound to afford protection to the people of Texas. When Texas was annexed to the States the Government assumed the duty of protecting the inhabitants against the savage foes who infested the borders, and it will be a crying shame if they let the Summer pass without affording them that protection.

Mr. Pendleton, of Ohio, (Dem.,) hoped that the Senate amendment would be concurred in by the House. They had heard it stated by the two gentlemen from Texas, that, within the limits of their districts, scarcely out of earshot of the people of the capital of the State, sixty-four men, women and children of that State were murdered by the Indians. The papers of this morning give deplorable accounts from the Texan borders, which show that people are murdered and homes deserted, because the Government will not give the people aid and protection from the wild and savage Apaches. These accounts show that there is an imperative necessity existing that the Government should, without delay, order the enrollment of a Texan mounted regiment; and that, if this was not done, that then the people of Texas will be justified in organizing a body to inflict chastisement on these Indians wherever they may be found. The gentleman from New-York (Mr. Olin) denies that any regular war existed between the whites and Indians. What did the gentleman mean by a regular war? The Indians were not in the habit of formally declaring war before they commenced hostilities. No; but they make their approach stealthily, and rob, and burn, and kill before their intentions are known. It has been also charged against the people of Texas that they had committed great cruelties upon the Indians. He admitted such was the case, but he at the same time contended that the accounts upon that head were very much exaggerated. But that such outrages were at all committed showed that the people of Texas had been exasperated beyond endurance. It showed that the Indian hostilities were characterized by acts of cruelty and atrocity, of murders and assassinations, beyond all precedent in the annals of border warfare. Those who contended, or imagined that the Reserve Indians were not connected with these hostilities, knew nothing of the matter, and the gentleman from New-York, (Mr. Olin,) when asserting this, had allowed his zeal on behalf of these Indians, to get the better of his prudence. But it was not these Indians the people feared, but the depredations of the Comanches and Apaches, who were the inveterate enemies of the white people. Was it because there were some lawless white men on the frontier of Texas that the whole population were to be left defenceless to the attacks of savage Indians? Was that a good reason for withholding the protecting arm of the Government from the defence of innocent citizens? It was the concurrent opinion of all persons well informed upon this subject that it required mounted men, good riders and expert marksmen—men accustomed to border life, accustomed to trailing—men who can move to the direction of the sun and by the stars and natural formation of the country—to operate successfully against the Indians. This force can be organized at once. Such a force is now ready to enter upon a campaign against the Indians, and to destroy them, as they ought to be destroyed. The Summer season is the only time that they can be operated against, and the coming Summer out to be taken advantage of for that purpose. The war must be carried to the villages and homes of these Indians, and such a punishment inflicted upon them as will keep them in order in all time to come. Independent of the state of affairs along the Texas frontier, they found a necessity for additional troops in that quarter from the condition of things along the Rio Grande. From last accounts from the Mexican border, they learned that Cortinas and his band of marauders were committing depredations. American Rangers had entered upon Mexican soil for the purpose of capturing him. Cortinas was protected by the people on the Mexican border, and could not be arrested without a violation of Mexican rights. Under these circumstances, a war with Mexico was imminent. The condition of things on the frontier threatens it. The act of the Government, in attacking and capturing two Mexican ships, belonging to Miramon, threatens it; and this latter act will make itself felt along the Rio Grande, and excite the people to take part with the people of the Capital in resenting this act, and war must be the result. An attack by Mexico will inevitably be made, and he would ask, was the Government ready to repel it? Were the troops on the Mexican border capable of repelling such an attack? Are they strong enough to discharge their duty in protecting the frontiers against the assaults that will probably be made upon it? The force there was not capable of meeting the danger. The result will be, as shadowed forth by Gov. Houston, that a volunteer force will have to be raised to chastise the Indians, and to repel the attacks of the Mexicans. What else will follow? When this has been done—when the people of Texas have taken the matter into their own hands, after carrying the war into the Indian Territories, and into the Mexican Territories, and having performed this duty according to their own discretion the people of Texas will present to this House a bill of costs, which they would have to pay. Yes, they will be bound to foot the bill. Knowing this, would it not be better to give to Gov. Houston the power to raise the regiment of mounted Texans as proposed? Every consideration of economy required that they should take the defence of the frontier into their own hands, and not leave it in the hands of the Texans. He hoped the House would agree to the Senate amendment.

Mr. McRae, of Mississippi, (Dem.,) made a few remarks in favor of the amendment.

Mr. Stevens, of Pennsylvania, (Rep.,) was opposed to the amendment, seeing that it recommended an increase to the Army, which he considered was already strong enough for the protection of the country. He could not possibly understand why it was that the Army was not so disposed as to place a sufficient force on the frontier for the protection of the inhabitants. As to the Indian hostilities, there was nothing to be apprehended from them. He believed that there was a greater necessity to keep a watch over and check the outrages and crimes of white men than there was to exercise these precautions to keep down the Indians. It had been asserted that a necessity had long existed for a greater force on the frontier of Texas than was stationed there. If this was so, how was it that the troops that were sent to Kansas, where they were not wanted, were not sent to Texas? Why did they not send the troops that were sent to Utah to Texas? This force was sent to Utah at an immense cost, and sent there for no other purpose, he believed, than to watch the intercourse between Brigham Young and his concubines. [Laughter.] That curiosity being now satisfied, let the troops be sent as quickly as possible to the Texan frontier, and when they have arrived there, surely there will be a sufficient force to protect the people from all hostilities, whether they come from white men or Indians. He wanted the force in Texas to be supplemented by United States troops, who would not be actuated by a spirit of partizanship, who would not be impelled by the prejudice and revengeful feelings which actuate the border men, who were known to entertain a singular animosity and hatred to all Indians, and who acted upon the doctrine of "manifest destiny"—that the Indians must be exterminated. He would vote, if necessary, for the raising of two additional regular regiments, but he thought the plan proposed, of mounting two regiments of infantry, was the one which the House ought to adopt. It would be a dangerous thing to raise, equip and arm a regiment of Texan Rangers, to operate on their own frontier, and officered from among themselves. The border men were impetuous and rash, and would soon plunge the country into war. Gentlemen said that a war with Mexico was imminent. Why, a war could be raised at any time. War was at the present time at their very gates. They had men murdered to order to get up a cause of war. If war with Mexico is imminent, it is because that a party of these very men will enter Mexico in search of a person, the Mexicans will resist, they will come to blows, and then we will have a war declared, and it will be announced, "That, whereas a war exists with Mexico by reason of her own act, therefore a sum of thirty millions of dollars shall be appropriated to carry it on." They had letters read setting forth the horrible cruelties of the Indians, but if the Indians could write letters and supply us with their versions of these transactions, what horrible pictures of Christian men's cruelty and torture would be revealed! You would have more terrible accounts given of outrages and murder and assassination than are set forth in those letters just read, and which come up here so opportunely on this occasion. But he had not yet seen upon what authority the United States Government was called upon to afford protection against these Indians, until the Texans themselves had exhausted all their own means, and were then compelled to call upon the Government to come to their relief. If they set an example of this kind, they will have similar demands made upon them from all quarters. He would vote against the amendment.

Mr. Otero, delegate from New-Mexico, offered an amendment, that a like sum, nearly a million of dollars, be appropriated to raise a mounted regiment of volunteers for the suppression of Indian hostilities in New-Mexico. He thought that when this question was taken up, when the necessity of raising a volunteer regiment for the protection of the Texan frontier presented itself, that some consideration would have been paid to the protection of the people of the frontiers of New-Mexico. He thought that two volunteer regiments would have been recommended, one for Texas and one for New-Mexico. The House some time ago refused to agree to the recommendation in the Volunteer bills, when it was believed that if a regiment had been raised the frontier would have been properly protected. Again they were forced to come before Congress and ask for aid in consequence of the numerous depredations and murders of unoffending women and children. When these enormities are brought before the attention of Congress, instead of their exciting indignation, they found the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. Stevens) eulogizing Indian warriors. Such men as he, such humanitarians as he, were more hateful to the Indians themselves than their open foes were. He felt sensitively upon the question, for he had had his own relatives' blood shed on the soil of New-Mexico by these savage Indians. His mother had been surrounded by them, and his brother's blood had been spilled by them, since the annexation of New Mexico to the United States. They had suffered more than they had under the iron heel of Mexican despotism. They had thought their condition would have been bettered by the change, but as far as their prosperity and material resources were concerned, they had been ruined. Mr. Otero put in some letters to be read, in which the agent for Indian Affairs in New-Mexico detailed the cruelties of the Indians. He denounced the doctrine that had been set up, that because there were a few bad, lawless white men in the Territory, the great bulk of the peaceable, industrious and wealthy citizens, should be left to the mercy of the Indian savages. These lawless whites, he asserted, were not the permanent citizens of New-Mexico, but roving emigrants and fugitives from justice, who, having no means of livelihood, take part with the Indians against the peaceable inhabitants. New-Mexico has an Indian frontier of fifteen hundred miles, and an Indian communication of one thousand miles—that was to say, that to reach the States from the frontier, the frontier people had to traverse one thousand miles of Indian territory; and yet, under these circumstances, Congress had up to this refused to give them any efficient protection or aid. He saw no humanity in defending and protecting savages who murdered innocent men, women and children. They ought first to look after the safety of the whites, their fellow-citizens. If he had his own way he would dispose of them in a different manner.

Mr. Stanton, of Ohio, (Rep.,)—How?

Mr. Otero—His plan would be to raise a regiment in New-Mexico, and to go forth and kill every Indian they met, until they subjugated them. [Laughter.] That would be his plan. The reason he desired to have volunteers raised for the protection of the frontier was, that by the punishment that would be inflicted upon the Indians by the frontiersmen, they would be impressed by a salutary fear of them, and that they might know that it was not necessary to send for foreign aid for the purpose. Without such a body of men they could have no permanent security.

Mr. Stanton called attention to the remarks of Mr. Otero, to show that if they made an application for the furnishing of a regiment of mounted volunteers for Texas, they would be bound to do just the same for New-Mexico. It was evident, therefore, if they adopted the policy of raising a volunteer regiment in one case, they would be called upon to do it in several. The Committee would do well to look at what would be the results arising from the policy now sought for the first time to be inaugurated. Would they put the country to the expense of furnishing these regiments whenever a frontier might be exposed to Indian depredations? The claim urged for this particular kind of protection was, that the frontier people were the best qualified to protect their own homes. If this was sound logic in the case of Texas, it was equally sound logic to urge on behalf of New-Mexico, Utah, and other Territories; and if admitted now it will be urged whenever the necessity exists. It was not denied that the people of Texas were exposed to Indian depredations, to robberies and to murders; but neither could it be denied that the peaceful Indian borders were exposed to the depredations of lawless white men.

Mr. Curtis, of Iowa, (Rep.,) denied that the Indians were exposed in the same way.

Mr. Stanton, in support of his argument, showed how the Indians had been driven from their Reserves by the Texans before they could gather in the crops which they had planted. The Indians had been driven from their homes with a strong hand, and with such violence that the United States troops had to interfere to protect them in their exodus to other settlements. He then referred to the communication from the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, wherein it was set forth that some of the charges urged against the Indians for the abduction of white women, and other things, were wholly unfounded. He was opposed to the enrollment of volunteer regiments of borderers, commanded by officers selected by themselves, all of whom, men and officers, might be supposed to have been engaged in depredations upon the Indians, and all of whom entertained most revengeful and vindictive feelings, which they would give vent to in summary vengeance whenever they got the chance, whether the Indians were guilty of depredations and hostilities or not. He denied that they would raise a body of such men as the emergency demanded in this way. An utter disregard of human life was one of the prevailing feelings amid border men, and if they raised such a body of men, and equipped them as a mounted regiment, they would exterminate the Indians. The question then was, would the Committee allow the regiment to be raised to carry out the idea announced by the delegate from New-Mexico, to exterminate the whole race of Indians? If this idea was right, if it was in accordance with the civilization and Christianity of the nineteenth century to exterminate a whole people, why, then, raise this regiment of Texan Rangers, and you will have taken a considerable step towards accomplishing that object. This course was not the one that was consistent with our relationship to the Indians. If they were compelled to wage war against the Indians, he would wage it with regular troops, commanded by United States officers, and conducted upon such Christian principles as was observed among Christian nations. In this way the forces of the United States would inflict just so much chastisement upon these Indians as would compel them to submission and obedience to the United States, and when that was once done, all was done. He had insuperable objections to the increase of the army in the manner proposed. It was said that war with Mexico was imminent, and in support of the argument reference was made to some affair which lately took place in connection with Cortinas, who, with his bandits, had reappeared in the Mexican territory. But no war could grow out of such an affair as that. However that might be, he would not wish to give to the President a force such as that it was proposed to raise, lest it might tempt to an invasion of Mexican soil. He did not want to give the President the means of making war without the consent of Congress, and that was the reason he for one would not consent to the raising of this regiment, which would soon find a pretext for involving this country in bloodshed. To meet the exigencies of the case, he would propose that two of the regiments of infantry now on the Texas frontiers be reorganized into two regiments of cavalry. This would give all the protection needed, without increasing the numerical strength of the Army. This would diminish the strength of the infantry, but in a corresponding ratio increase the strength of the cavalry. His amendment was, that the President be authorized, whenever the exigencies of the service require it, to equip and organize two regiments of cavalry from the infantry regiments, selecting the best men for that service, either individually or by companies, and that a sum of seven hundred and ninety-seven thousand dollars be appropriated for that purpose.

Mr. Longnecker, of Pennsylvania, (Rep.,) was in favor of mounting two regiments of infantry, but objected to selecting them from companies, as this would create dissatisfaction among officers.

Mr. Hughes, of Maryland, (Dem.,) offered an amendment, which was rejected, proposing that the army be increased by an additional regiment of cavalry. If we are to have cavalry let them be properly drilled, and not be likely to fall from their horses at the first charge.

Mr. Stanton's substitute was lost, 49 against 73.

The amendment was adopted reducing the term of study at West Point to four years.

The Senate's amendment to support a regiment of mounted Texas volunteers, was rejected, 50 against 69.

Mr. Otero's amendment was rejected.

The Committee rose.

The House concurred in the Senate's Texas Regiment amendment, by Yeas 74, Nays 72.

A motion was made to reconsider the vote.

Mr. Bonham called up his resolution that when the House adjourn on Friday, it be to the 30th inst., and it was tabled, 88 against 53. Adjourned.

Chess.—The St. Louis Democrat says of the Chess Congress in that city: "The absence of one or two prominent players, who were expected, and who had positively promised to be present, detracts somewhat from the interest taken in the meeting, but taken in view of the players contesting from abroad, it has proved even a greater success than the National Congress held in New-York in 1857, as in the sixteen players who formed the grand tournament there but six were from abroad, and none in the minor tournament who were not residents of New-York or its immediate vicinity. So that in place of its being a National tourney, it was more properly a local New-York tourney, with the mistake in the arrangements that the first two prizes went out of town."

LAW INTELLIGENCE.

GENERAL SESSIONS.

A Heavy Day's Work—Singular Case of Forgery—A Newspaper Printer in Trouble—Alleged Embezzlement of $4,000 from the Overland Mail Company.

Recorder BARNARD held Court yesterday for nine hours, in order to finish the business of the session so far as the District Attorney had cases prepared.

Ulrich Mark, convicted on Wednesday of receiving stolen goods, was sentenced to two years in the State Prison. But for abundant evidence that it was his first offence, and that he had always borne a good character previous to its commission, he would have been more severely punished.

Counsel in the case of Homer B. Hawkins, indicted for embezzling money to the amount of $4,000 belonging to the Overland Mail Company, addressed the Court at some length. There are two suits pending against Hawkins, one civil and the other criminal. In each he is held to bail in the sum of $15,000, which he has been unable to raise, and has consequently been incarcerated in prison for seventy-five days, though anxious, according to his counsel, to be brought to trial, and have his innocence established, or his guilt proven. The object of counsel, yesterday, was to urge an immediate trial. A number of old Californians, personal friends of the accused, among whom we noticed Jeames Pipes of Pipesville, were in Court, ready to be called as witnesses. Mr. Anthon, Assistant District-Attorney, stated that the case had originally been ordered for trial in the Oyer and Terminer, whence it was remitted to this Court. With the civil suit he had nothing to do, but the bail, he contended, in the criminal suit, was not too large. He was not ready to proceed at once to trial.

Ex-Recorder Smith, also of counsel for Hawkins, remarked that, if anything was more oppressive than another, it was the fixing a man's bail so preposterously high that it could not be obtained, and then refuse to try him, notwithstanding that he eagerly desired to be tried.

Recorder BARNARD directed Ex-Recorder Smith to argue a motion before the Court this (Friday) morning, with a view to the quashing of the indictment. After hearing that motion, he would decide what course to pursue.

Jeremiah Macauley, for contempt of Court in not obeying a subpœna to appear as a witness before the Grand Jury, was sent to the City Prison for one day, to teach him to be more obedient in future.

Emma Wilson, a servant, indicted for larceny from her employer, was sent to the penitentiary for six months.

The case of David Leach alias Beach, charged with forgery, was sent to the Oyer and Terminer, his counsel arguing that Recorder Barnard, before whom he has once been tried (on which occasion the jury disagreed,) is an important witness, and that they could not safely proceed to trial without his evidence. The Recorder will have to give testimony regarding the former trial before the Oyer and Terminer.

Eliza O'Conor, Benjamin Thompson and Eliza Brown, severally pleaded guilty to petit larceny and were sentenced for six months each to the Penitentiary.

Benjamin Taylor was convicted of an assault with a dangerous weapon, with intent to do bodily harm. He was sent to the State Prison for two years.

John Jones pleaded guilty to an attempt at grand larceny, and was sentenced to the State Prison for two years.

Charles Simmons bit off a small portion of a man's ear a short time ago, in a quarrel. He pleaded guilty to assault and battery, and was sent for one year to the Penitentiary.

David Merritt was placed on trial for forging a certificate of a check for $300 on the East River Bank, in the name of the paying teller of that Bank. The accused is a printer by trade, and has been employed in the composition office of the Commercial Advertiser since 1851. On the 10th October, 1859, a man calling himself Robert Craig, went to the jewelry store of Badger, Dillon & Co., in Fulton-street, and selected diamond studs and other jewelry to the value of $278 50. He ordered them to be laid aside, and in the course of the day he would either call or send for them. He did not then pay for them, but shortly before 6 P. M., the defendant, Merritt, came to the store with a letter, requesting their delivery, and inclosing a check on the East River Bank, purporting to be signed by a Mr. David Craig, and certified by the paying teller. Both the signature and certificate were afterwards discovered to be forgeries. In the meantime the jewelry was delivered, and Merritt disappeared. Nothing was heard of him till Jan. 25 of the present year, when a detective arrested him at the City Post-office, in the act of calling for letters addressed to Eugene Landsfield. He told the officer that a man had asked him to take the letter to Messrs. Badger's store, receive the parcel of jewelry, and bring it to him at the Harlem Railroad dépôt in Centre-street, when he would give him $2 for his trouble.

Yesterday, Mr. H. L. Clinton, defendant's counsel, produced first for the defence a witness named Powell, who deposed that he was present when the man, who seemed to know Merritt, met him in Fulton-street, and asked him to obtain the jewelry and bring it to him, as aforesaid, which he did.

The cross-examination of this witness by the District Attorney, overthrew any reliance that might have been placed upon his evidence.

Counsel succeeded better in calling to the stand Mr. Samuel F. Baxter, foreman of the composing-room of the Commercial Advertiser, employed 24 years in that establishment, and who testified that Merritt had been steadily at work there for eight years, and that his character for honesty and integrity was very good.

Mr. Horsman, a printer in the same office, deposed that he had been employed there twenty years, and had known Merritt eleven years. He gave him an excellent character. Rev. N. M. Whiting had known Merritt since 1839; knew his family well; had not seen him much lately, but always esteemed him to be of very good character. Several other persons testified to the same effect.

At this stage of the proceedings, the Assistant District-Attorney astonished everybody by recalling to the stand Mr. McMullen, the clerk of Messrs. Badger & Co., who had sold the goods to the soi disant Craig. The witness testified that Powell and Craig were one and the same person. This led to a rigid cross-examination on the part of Mr. Clinton, but left the impression on the minds of the jury that the witness was correct, and that Craig was Powell and Powell was Craig.

After the summing up of counsel on both sides, and a very discriminating and impartial charge by the Recorder, the jury retired, and shortly before eight o'clock, found Merritt guilty of forgery in the fourth degree. On the application of his council he was remanded for sentence.

Jurisdiction of District Courts over Foreign Corporations.

Etienne Labussière vs. The New-York and New-Haven Railroad Company.—This was an appeal to the General Term of the Common Pleas from a judgment of the Seventh District Court, on a verdict rendered in favor of the plaintiff and respondent.

The action was brought to recover damages for killing the respondent's cow, caused by the alleged negligence of the Company in running one of their trains over the Harlem road. The accident occurred near Williams' Bridge, Westchester County, on the 28th of September, 1858, the plaintiff averring that it was in consequence of the neglect of the defendants, they not having constructed fences, &c., on the line of the road.

On the trial before the Justice of the Seventh District Court, it was shown that the plaintiff's cow was allowed to go at large, and the fence being down at the point of the accident, she got upon the track and was killed. The defence contended that the Company was not liable, for the reason that the plaintiff himself was careless and negligent in allowing his cow to run at large, he thereby having brought about the injury for which he claimed damages; also that it was the duty of the Harlem Railroad Company to keep the road in order, fenced, &c., &c.

Before going to trial, however, defendants' counsel demanded that the complaint be dismissed, on the ground that both the plaintiff and defendant were non-residents of the Seventh Judicial District, and therefore not within the jurisdiction of that Court; and for the further reason that the defendants were a foreign corporation. These objections were overruled, and the motion to dismiss complaint denied. The cause then went to the jury, under the instruction of the Court, and a verdict was rendered for the plaintiff for the value of his cow and costs.

The defendants appealed on the following grounds: First, the proceedings before the Justice are void ab initio, both parties being non-residents of his judicial district. Second, the proceedings are also void, because the defendants were a foreign corporation, over which District Courts of the City have no jurisdiction. Third, the Justice erred in refusing to dismiss the complaint.

The Court held, after argument on the first, that the return made before the Justice did not show that the Company had no office within the district; and the fact of the appellants' non-residence within the district, will not be presumed. On the second point—by the act of 1846, the appellants are liable to be sued by summons in the same way as corporations created by the laws of this State. This act is subject to all subsequent changes of the law relative to suits against corporations; and, as by the act of 1857, District Courts of this City have jurisdiction over domestic corporations, by the act of 1846 the appellant may be sued in such District Court. As to the third point, the appellant could not set up as matter of defence the negligence of the plaintiff. Second R. S., 5th Ed., Sec. 54, p. 690, renders them liable for defects of fences and cattle-yards, whether on their own or on the Harlem road. The Harlem road is, in fact, part of their line of road, and, consequently, they are liable, under the above section of the statute. Judgment affirmed, with costs.

Elbridge F. Gerry for appellant; F. G. Lucky for respondent.

The Police Cases Concluded.

The People ex rel. Maguire vs. The Police Commissioners.—The trials of the famous Police cases were brought to a close, for the present, on Thursday, by a verdict for the defendants in the above entitled action. The Jury also found for the defendants in the case of Peck vs. The Commissioners.

THE PEMBERTON MILLS INSURANCE.—The story in the papers that the Pemberton Mills Company had made a "drain" upon the Insurance Companies for 46 per cent. of the loss caused by the destruction of their property, is incorrect. Their "claim" is the subject of negotiations with the companies, which have not yet reached any result. To satisfy the requirements of law, the Pemberton Company have commenced a suit, but the matter may be settled without any appeal to the Courts to act upon the subject.—Boston Traveller.

THURSDAY, April 19—P. M.

The news by the Arago from England to April 4, published in the morning papers, was construed on the Stock Exchange as relieving the market of the apprehension of a further increase in the value of Money in London, and also as dispelling the slight political concern manifested in the previous advices by the Persia. This feeling, added to the influence of the adjournment of the New-York Legislature, gave fresh impetus to the demand for Stocks, which, before the close of the day, showed itself of a highly speculative character, advancing prices from one to three per cent. over the currency of Wednesday. Some of the State Stocks and Railway Mortgages were equally buoyant with the Railway Shares, and at the Second, as at the early Board, the business done took a wide range, and included every department of the official list. At the very close, the extreme advance was scarcely maintained, though the firm tone of demand was by no means relaxed. The Western Stocks were quite excited on Toledo, Michigan Southern and Galena, and ½@1 ℔ cent higher on Michigan Central and Illinois Central. The reaction on Harlem and Hudson, noticed yesterday, was fully recovered, and speculation was again active in both the common and preference shares of the former. The Erie shares ran up to 17½ ℔ cent., as against 15¼@¾ yesterday, and New-York Central, which left off 79½ on Wednesday, advanced to 80⅝@¾, closing 80⅝@½ ℔ cent. The traffic of the Company for the first half of the current fiscal year is now reported complete, and compares as follows with the previous season:

NEW-YORK CENTRAL—HALF FISCAL YEAR.

	1859-'60.	1858-'59.
October........	$720,202	$657,727
November........	652,406	595,213
December........	520,396	510,424
January........	387,128	380,348
February........	402,530	370,544
March........	554,339	509,210
Total, 6 months........	$3,237,001	$3,023,466
Increase traffic to 1st April, 1860........		$213,535

The Share list, after the final adjournment of the Brokers, closed ¼@⅜ ℔ cent. easier; New-York Central 80¼@⅜, Galena 64¼@⅜, Rock Island 64¼@⅜, Toledo 29½@⅝, Erie 17@17¼, Michigan Southern preferred, 24⅞@25, Michigan Central 49¼@49½, Hudson 42@42¼, Harlem preferred 39⅞@40, Pacific Mail 105¼@½, Panama 134¼@⅝, and Reading, which was in active demand throughout the day, 43⅛@⅜.

The demand for Missouri Six ℔ Cents was larger than at any time within the fortnight, and no new supplies being in the market, the price went up to 84¼ ℔ cent. The other State Stocks were also firm and most descriptions scarce. Tennessees sold 91⅞@¼, Californias at 90 and North Carolinas at 96 ℔ cent. New-Yorks are but rarely offered at the Board, and the supply is inadequate to the gradually advancing demand for banking security. The Federal Five ℔ Cents, available for this object in New-York, are held above the present bids at the Board; for the registered from 103½ to 104 ℔ cent. is demanded to-day. The Federal Sixes rose to 108¾ ℔ cent. Brooklyn Water Loan stands high as 102¾. The list of sales shows a further general improvement in the Railway mortgages with a well-distributed business. The Harlem first mortgage brought par; the Michigan Centrals, 94¼; Hannibal and St. Joseph, 74; Michigan Southern Sinking Funds, 70⅞, and the Toledo Sinking Funds 70 ℔ cent. Michigan Southern first mortgage brought 82 ℔ cent.

There is not much to report in Money affairs to-day, beyond the further improved confidence in the future of the market from the change in the financial news by the Arago. The English Funds are reported ⅛ ℔ cent. higher, and the London Discount market easier, which would indicate that the maximum rate of interest at the Bank of England had been attained, for the present. We hear to-day of a line of $100,000 in first-class short acceptances being taken at the rate of 5 ℔ cent. ℔ annum. Temporary loans to the Brokers are 5@5½ ℔ cent. In Exchange the business for the mail on Saturday has scarcely yet shown itself. London is 108⅞@109; Paris, f.5.18¾@f.5.17½. The Boston Banks are gaining in Specie, of late, and the market for Money in that quarter is unusually cheap and easy. At New-Orleans on Saturday P. M., April 14, the Bank return showed the following changes from the previous week. The Specie begins, as usual toward the Summer months, to move toward the East, via Mississippi and Ohio Rivers:

Decrease in Specie........	$133,614
Decrease in Deposits........	552,151
Decrease in Circulation........	462,600
Decrease in Short Loans........	777,060
Decrease in Exchange........	381,121

The following was to-day's business at the office of the Assistant Treasurer:

Receipts........	$88,709 49
Payments........	94,610 50
Balance........	7,508,937 40

The receipts include $73,000 for Customs.

The New-York Central Company have resumed the publication of their monthly traffic, and the following report embraces the four months heretofore omitted. The business in April, therefore, is understood to go considerably ahead of the increase in March, as compared with last season:

HOTELS.

MOUNT PROSPECT HOUSE,
West Bloomfield, New-Jersey, will be opened for the reception of boarders on the 1st of May. A cottage house on the grounds to rent. W. HOLT.
Guests conveyed to and from the dépôt free of charge.

HALIFAX HOTEL TO LET, AND POSSESSION GIVEN MAY 1.—This large and well-situated Hotel, built with all modern conveniences, in the centre of the city, expressly to meet the rapidly-growing wants of the traveling public, but lately occupied by the Government as officers' quarters, will be vacant after the first day of May; and offers to hotel-keepers or others desirous of engaging in that business, an opportunity seldom met with.
The completion of the railroad to Windsor and Truro, the connection established from the former place with St. John, New-Brunswick, Portland, Boston, and Canada, by the Grand Trunk Railway, and from the latter with Pictou, the various ports in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, Prince Edward's Island, and Quebec, together with the arrival at, and departure from Halifax direct of the European, American, West Indian, and Newfoundland Mail steamers, and the long admitted want of hotel accommodation in this city, render this enterprise well worthy of consideration. Application may be made to either of the subscribers, at Halifax, and any further information required by persons in the United States will be given by Messrs. WHITMAN BROS. & CO., No. 72 Beaver-st., New-York.
Signed, J. G. A. CREIGHTON, WM. PRYOR, } Trustees.

THE DRIGGS PATENT, OR THE VIOLIN PIANOS—Manufactured and sold by the DRIGGS PIANO COMPANY, No 543 Broadway. There is no strain whatever upon the case or sounding boards. There are two sounding boards, outwardly convex like the violin, giving three times the vibratory surface obtained in any other piano. The strain is borne by an independent iron frame, and it is stronger and will remain in tune longer than any other Piano. The case forms a vibratory shell, the same as the body of a violin, and is not filled up with heavy blocks and planking as in other Pianos. Its construction is far more simple, and it is the only Piano made on scientific principles. "It is the best Piano-forte existing."
S. B. DRIGGS, Patentee and Inventor.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The Senate Committee, appointed to investigate rumored abuses of the public printing, made its report yesterday. The evidence, which embraces testimony from CORNELIUS WENDELL, Collector BAKER, of Philadelphia, RICE, formerly of the Pennsylvanian, Col. FLORENCE, and others, places beyond question the fact of the extensive profit and patronage of the printing having been employed, under the direction of the President, to reward his partisan friends, and to influence elections. The subject is shown to have been a favorite one with Mr. BUCHANAN, and his devotion to it to have been incessant and indefatigable. Two thousand extra copies of the report were ordered to be printed. The House bill in regard to the census was passed. Mr. BAYARD, from the Judiciary Committee, reported a bill relative to private property taken for public uses, and prescribing the mode of valuation and compensation. After a debate in which Messrs. MASON, WIGFALL and COLLAMER participated, the bill was set aside, and the Homestead bill taken up. Mr. GWIN modified his amendment respecting the occupancy of mineral lands, by excluding foreigners who have merely declared their intentions from the advantages of the Act. Mr. LANE, of Oregon, and Mr. BRAGG, of North Carolina, opposed this modification; and it was rejected. Mr. FITCH offered an amendment, which was rejected, permitting all soldiers who had been in actual service to locate a quarter section. Mr. CRITTENDEN proposed and argued at length for an amendment restricting the benefits of the bill to persons actually resident in the country at the passage of the act. The amendment was opposed by Mr. JOHNSON, of Arkansas, and was unsuccessful. The subject was finally made the order for May 2, when it is understood the vote shall be taken, and the Senate went into Executive session. The House of Representatives, in Committee of the Whole, discussed the Senate amendment to the Military Academy bill, whereby some $800,000 are appropriated to raise and equip a regiment of mounted volunteers in Texas. Messrs. REAGAN, PENDLETON, and MCRAE successively spoke in favor of the regiment, while Messrs. STEVENS and STAUNTON opposed it: the latter proposing an amendment, which failed, authorizing the President to employ the same money to mount any infantry regiment of the regular army, and detail it to the Indian service. Mr. OTERO, the delegate from New-Mexico, moved for a similar appropriation for his Territory. A vote was at length obtained upon the Senate's amendment, when it was lost, 50 to 69, and the Committee rose. The House then accepted the Senate's amendment by a close vote, and adjourned.

The steamship North American, from Liverpool on the 4th inst., calling at Queenstown on the 5th, arrived at Portland last evening. Her news is a day later. The most important items are the suppression of the Carlist revolt in Spain, the troops submitting to the Government; and the outbreak of an insurrection at Palermo, which had also been repressed. The commercial advices exhibit no marked change.

The war upon the Central Railroad has fairly opened at Albany. The Canal Board, acting upon the opinion of Attorney-General MYERS, relative to the unconstitutionality of the act abolishing the tolls, has instructed the Auditor to demand their payment for the current year, with some $3,500,000 of arrears. The Attorney-General in prosecuting the suit, which of course will be instituted, will be aided by Hon. J. H. REYNOLDS.

The Maryland Constitutional Union Convention was yesterday in session at Baltimore, and will probably complete its deliberations to-day. It has determined to send delegates to the National Union Convention at Baltimore.

The fast and popular steamship De Soto arrived here yesterday in less than four days from Havana. There was little of interest at that place. Strangers had nearly all left for cooler latitudes. The United States steamer Crusader had sailed for Key West to communicate with the Mohawk, her companion on the station.

The trial of Rev. JACOB HARDEN, upon a charge of poisoning his wife, was continued yesterday at Belvidere, N. J. The testimony of Dr. CHILTON, who was upon the stand for several hours, was conclusive as to the fact of the lady having perished from repeated doses of white arsenic. The physicians, three in number, who conducted the autopsy, testified to the same fact.

The Board of Aldermen returned the resolution to make an additional issue of the Central Park Improvement Fund stock, to the Board of Councilmen, that Board having failed to lay the resolution over, as required by rule. A resolution appropriating $3,800 to strengthen the walls of Tompkins Market was referred. The Mayor's communication in relation to the reception of the Japanese Embassy was received, and the resolution to appropriate $25,000 to defray the expense of the reception was laid over under the rule. The Board then adjourned to Monday next.

The Board of Councilmen called upon the Street Commissioner to report as to encumbered piers, and to compel the Harlem Railroad Company to run their small cars to Forty-second-street. City Inspector DELAVAN informed the Board that there is at present no Superintendent of Markets, and that all complaints of violation of the ordinance relative to markets should be made to the City Inspector. The Board called upon Mr. DELAVAN to report a list of his employes and their salaries, and also whether any of them hold other offices under the City or General Governments, and concurred with the Aldermen in tendering thanks to the members of the recent Legislature "who so manfully defended the interests of the City," without specifying names. The Board adjourned to Monday evening next.

Yesterday, the Court of General Sessions was more than usually busy, Recorder BARNARD sitting for nine hours to clear the Calendar before the adjournment of the Court to-day. The Grand Jury, it is understood, have sufficient work in hand to occupy them during the greater part of next week. Among the cases called up yesterday was that of [illegible], charged with embezzling $4,000 from the Overland Mail Company. He has been confined in the Tombs since the early part of yesterday, for default of bail in $15,000. There is also a civil suit against him, in which he is held to bail in the same heavy amount. The District Attorney was unable to proceed to trial yesterday, and the case will come up for argument to-day on a motion to quash the indictment. Another case of interest was that of DAVID MERRITT, for many years past a printer of good character and industrious habits, in the office of the Commercial Advertiser. He was charged with forging the certificate of the paying-teller of the East River Bank, to a check on that Bank for $300. The case, as reported, was quite singular in its developments. At a late hour, last night, the Jury convicted him of forgery in the fourth degree. He was remanded for sentence.

The well-known aeronaut, Prof. WISE, made a balloon ascension yesterday afternoon from Palace Gardens. Some five hundred inside, and several thousand outside spectators witnessing the spectacle. The balloon was last seen going in a north-east direction, somewhere apparently over Astoria. It was his intention to descend before dark.

In the Stock Market yesterday, after the slight lull of Wednesday, speculation took a fresh spring, carrying prices above the previous top figures of the season, and inducing considerable eagerness to buy at the afternoon Board. Exchange quiet. Money affairs further improved by the financial advices received per Arago.

The transactions in Flour and Grain were limited, as buyers and sellers disagreed about prices. Cotton was inactive. Provisions were more sought after. Pork was dearer. Sugars were freely dealt in—2,745 hhds. of all kinds having found buyers at a shade firmer prices. Molasses and Whisky attracted more attention. Other branches of trade presented no really new feature.

Mayor Wood at Charleston.

It is positively asserted by the Philadelphia Press that not only will Mr. FERNANDO WOOD be unable to procure admission for his private peculiar delegates to the Charleston Convention, but that his attempts to procure it are already exciting considerable amusement at Charleston. This is really too bad, if it be true, and though the spectacle of a good man bravely struggling with adverse fates is always a pleasing one to every well balanced mind, no one can contemplate the repulse of our worthy Mayor and his worthy followers from the gates of the Democratic temple without experiencing an emotion somewhat akin to pain.

Considering how strenuously he has labored for an honorable participation in the approaching division of the spoils; considering the confidence reposed in him by thirty thousand of his fellow-citizens; considering the base behavior of the Tammany faction; considering his admirable neglect of his Mayoral duties, and his splendid efforts in Connecticut; and above all, considering the brilliancy of his stump oratory, we cannot help regarding the exclusion of such a man from the councils of the Democracy as a national misfortune. That his private delegates, the delegates of his bosom, should have the doors shut in their faces, is one of the most unmistakable indications of the madness which has overtaken the politicians of the party to which he belongs. Anybody in whose eyes the flower of Mozart Hall does not find favor, is clearly very unfit to select the person who is to occupy the Presidential Chair for the next four years. Nor in case these gentlemen are rejected, will a want of familiarity with their standing here at home in New-York, either political or social, be accepted as an excuse for the blunder. Their personal appearance ought to be of itself a sufficient recommendation, and in that character which at least none can deny them, as judges of whisky and providers of whisky for "self and friends," they are at least the equals of any man in Charleston.

We greatly fear, however, that the real reason for this snubbing of our Mayor, if snubbed he really be, is not so much a conviction of the irregularity of his delegation, as a suspicion of his treachery in the late contest in Connecticut. We foresaw, as soon as the election was over, that the leaders of the party would very probably begin to doubt his political integrity, and we took the liberty of warning him of his danger. He displayed in Connecticut, according to his own account, the greatest powers of oratory ever witnessed in the world, inasmuch as his speeches were a combination of the choicest features in the eloquence of all the greatest orators both of ancient and modern times, and his efforts were accordingly crowned by a Republican victory. He maintains that he stumped the State on the Democratic side, and we believe him; but appearances, it must be confessed, are against him, and his enemies are so numerous that, of course, every suspicious circumstance in his conduct is magnified grossly. If he is wise, he will take warning by what has happened, and go stumping in other States no more, but reserve those wonderful rhetorical powers for occasions of interest in New-York, where he is best known and appreciated, and where the public taste is more cultivated. The Yankees of Connecticut are entirely unable to appreciate such phenomena as DANIEL WEBSTER, HENRY CLAY, GLADSTONE, PALMERSTON and D'ISRAELI rolled into one. His return from Charleston will recall to everybody's mind a variety of similar cases of national ingratitude. We are not using the language of flattery when we say that neither CORIOLANUS, nor BELISARIUS, nor even CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS, was half so badly treated, and that both their virtues and their misfortunes are united in him.

The Decencies of Dueling.

As the "last argument of Kings" seems in a fair way to become the first argument of Republicans, and the ancient fashion of voiding all differences between man and man by a peremptory appeal to the God of Battles is fast coming once more into vogue, it is worth while to fix the particular style of combat which Christian gentlemen may properly offer and accept. Of course, should HEENAN have been victorious over SAYERS, fisticuffs will be all the rage. But this still being uncertain, we hesitate between the hot shot and the cold steel. Mr. PRYOR and his seconds declare, against Falstaff's friend, for gunpowder, and think the bowie-knife "inhuman, brutal, and vulgar." But the bowie-knife is after all only the American sword; and we find in a recent number of Le Nord the following excellent and timely plea for the blade as opposed to the ball. The writer is commenting upon a duel at St. Petersburg, in which an artillery officer has been sorely wounded by a pistol-shot, and he proceeds: "I think the pistol adds greatly to the odiousness of the duel. Firearms lame and disfigure you when they do not kill you. The cold steel kills, too, but if it wounds it does not spoil you. Then with the sword you defend yourself while you attack; you put your courage into your blade, which becomes animated as it were, and a part of yourself. The steel, in a word, is simply your arm armed. Of course, chance plays its part in sword-duels; but that part is less important than is played by courage, coolness and skill."

Here are considerations worth weighing. The same philosophic author compares dueling to the small-pox, as a social disease which can only be controlled, not suppressed; and it this be so, it would be well, perhaps, that we should have a National Convention of Honor, to settle at once the grave questions of how, why, and in what circumstances Americans of good standing shall be allowed to put each other genteelly to death.

The Pope and His Allies.

The Pope is getting his forces into movement for the reconquest of the Romagna. As there are many honest Roman Catholics in America who may be supposed to take some interest in the reputation and the conduct of the Head of their Church, it is well that they should know what kind of weapons they are upon which the Holy Father counts for the recovery of his lost temporalities.

One of the chief culverins of the Vatican has been already discharged. This is the solemn excommunication of all aiders and abettors of civil revolution in the Roman dominions. To Protestants, of course, and practical people of all forms of belief everywhere, this Bull of Excommunication will simply appear a ridiculous anachronism. It certainly will not interfere either with the physical digestion or the moral tranquillity of any rational human being in the Italian States, from VICTOR EMANUEL on his throne to the railway-porters on the Sardinian trains. Before the shrill whistle of the steam-engine among the Maritime Alps, the terrors of the bell, book, and candle have vanished like ghosts at cock-crowing. The only political consequence of this proceeding will be the serious blow which the Papacy will receive in the estimation of mankind, from this fresh revelation of the impotence and the ignorance which can find a place in St. Peter's chair. The act will slip into its natural niche by the side of Archbishop CULLEN's denunciation of the axis of the earth. The world contrives to keep revolving with more or less regularity in spite of that illustrious Hibernian ecclesiastic; and we think it extremely probable that the people of Italy will continue to administer their own affairs quite as prosperously under the anathema as they could under the benediction of the successor of GREGORY XVI. and ALEXANDER BORGIA. Still the Pope does not believe this. He thinks that his bull of excommunication is the most tremendous punishment which can be inflicted on mankind; and it is, therefore, infinitely disgraceful both to him and to the Church over which he presides, that in the middle of the Nineteenth Century a dignitary of the Christian Church should dare to outrage the moral sense of the world by leveling what he supposes to be the thunders of the Almighty at millions of human beings, for asserting their right to the administration of their own temporal affairs. The most devout Catholic cannot surely contemplate such an exhibition of ferocious, though happily futile, vindictiveness as this, without a shudder of disgust. Less futile but not less ferocious is another device which the father of the faithful is putting into practice to compass the objects of his temporal ambition. This is to massacre innocent people in the streets of Rome, in the hope of thereby provoking a popular outbreak which he may compel the French troops to suppress by force. On the 19th of March such an onslaught of the Papal gendarmes upon the unarmed people took place, and is graphically described by the Roman correspondent of the London Times, himself a Catholic. On horseback and on foot the Papal heroes issued from Monte Citorio, driving the inhabitants before them with oaths and imprecations. Six gallant French soldiers, drawing their sabres, protected a number of people who took refuge in the café of the Giglio d'Oro; but wherever the terrible French uniform was not to be seen, the armed poltroons did their work valiantly. The Times' correspondent saw one young man cut down at his side, "coachfuls of wounded women" carried by him—one "picked up in a doorway, with an ugly gash in her left breast;" and "one child killed in its mother's arms." The American Vice-Consul was wounded in the side, and several other foreigners going about their lawful affairs were cut down by these ruffians, whose leader, like the Bishop at the siege of Bezières, cried out constantly, "Make an end of them: kill them all!" The dead were to be numbered by tens—the wounded by scores; and but for the interference of the French, the streets of the Eternal City would doubtless have seen such scenes as they have not known since the lanzknechts of the Constable DE BOURBON drove CLEMENT VII. into the Castle of San Angelo.

Fortunately for freedom, this plan of the Pope has had no better success than his Bull. The people were warned by their leaders to bear and forbear; and nobly did they obey the trying command. But the terrors of the world to come, and the horrors of promiscuous murder, have not exhausted the catalogue of the Pope's artillery. His Holiness announces solemnly that he depends for the restoration of "order in his States" upon the "Holy Virgin Mary." As he has established a kind of claim upon the gratitude of the Virgin by decreeing the doctrine of the Immaculate Conception into an article of faith, PIUS probably looks for such an intervention in behalf of his princely pretensions as St. JAMES vouchsafed to the Gothic Kings of Spain. It is not a great while since the Virgin Mary was believed by the Russians to have interfered in their cause against the Turks. At the siege of Silistria, in 1854, an angel (of course a fallen angel) was said to have appeared in the air above the Ottoman city, and there to have done battle for the Crescent with the Virgin Mary, long worshipped of the Greeks. The result of the celestial encounter does not appear in the bulletins, but it is certain that the Russians were in the end very badly beaten, and forced to raise the siege. Possibly the Pope may set small store by a precedent drawn from schismatic history. But what can the world think of a spiritual teacher who invokes the most awful sanctions of religion, the daggers of assassins, and the miraculous enginery of the Virgin Mary, to preserve for himself the vulgar realities of power and of pelf, the right of dominion and the privilege of taxation over thousands of his fellow-creatures?

Walkerism in Europe.

The democracy of Switzerland have taken a leaf from the book of their brethren in our own Gulf States. The question of the occupation by France of the Chablais and Faucigny, the "neutralized" districts of Savoy, being still under diplomatic discussion, certain would-be William Walkers, of Geneva, undertook to settle the matter by raising the flag of the Cantons in these provinces. A band, in numbers hardly equal to the army of JOHN BROWN at Harper's Ferry, crossed the Lake of Geneva to Thonon, in the Savoyard territory, and called upon the victims of Sardinian selfishness and French ambition to accept their independence at the hands of the children of WILLIAM TELL. The "victims" replied by marching a squad of gendarmes to the shore and arresting all their liberators—doubtless to the intense surprise of Sir ROBERT PEEL and his little knot of friends in the British Parliament—who have been proclaiming so loudly the pitiable case of these poor Savoyards, longing for union with Switzerland, and condemned to be Frenchmen against their will.

So far as this ridiculous outburst of Genevan demagogism can affect the relations of the European States, its immediate result will doubtless be to paralyze the Swiss protest against the annexation of the Chablais and Faucigny to France. The Governments of "law and order" on the Continent, which have never looked with favor upon the democratic tendencies of the Cantons, will be thoroughly roused by this eruption of practical fillibusterism to the impropriety of extending in any way the frontiers or the influence of the Helvetian Republic; and the Federal Council of Switzerland has given the clearest signs of its disgust at a proceeding which has compromised, in a moment, all its hopes of enlisting the sympathy of the Great Powers in favor of its national protest against the transfer of the Chablais and Faucigny to France.

The William Walkers of Switzerland have done their own country no better turn in Europe than their great prototype has achieved for ourselves in America. Like him, they have blackened the good name without fortifying the authority of democratic institutions.

The Legislature.

The Democratic members of our State Legislature have issued an address to their constituents. It is prolix on the question of the Finances and the Canal Enlargement, and eloquent upon the subject of Negro suffrage. But it has nothing whatever to say of the leading measures of the session,—the Toll bill, the City Railroads and the general corruption which ruled and regulated the action of both branches of the Legislature. These omissions are a good deal more significant than anything which the address contains.

The Republicans had a majority in both Houses. Why do not the Democrats denounce them for the iniquitous legislation which they, being in a minority, were unable to prevent? Why do they not hold them responsible for the infamous outrages upon public right embodied in the City Railroad bills? Because the Democrats supported those measures very generally in both branches. It is quite true that the Republicans, having a majority, might have arrested their passage; but it is none the less true that the Democrats, although a minority, might have done the same thing. The truth is that neither party votes nor party considerations decided the question on either side. It was simply a question of money; and both parties were equally involved in the responsibility and disgrace of the proceeding.

The Toll bill was another very delicate matter to touch upon in a political address. As a general thing, the Democrats opposed it—but they do not seem in the least inclined to boast of having effected its defeat. This would look too much like assuming the responsibility of the heavy taxation from which, in part, its enactment would have relieved the State. The measure was essentially wrong in principle, and its defeat was demanded by the best interests of the State at large. But we are a little surprised that the Democracy seem so unwilling to claim credit with the people for having defeated it.

GOV. MORGAN's action throughout seems to have been based upon convictions of public justice, and to have been prompted by a determination to perform his duty without fear of consequences. As we have already taken occasion to say, in two or three instances we think he has made very grave mistakes. But we have not the slightest doubt of the uprightness of his intentions, or of his resolute purpose to protect the rights and the interests of the public at large.

It is discreditable to the Assembly that they should have defeated so just and so salutary a measure as the Health bill for this City. Last year, Mr. C. S. SPENCER, one of our own representatives, after acknowledging fully the great merit and importance of the bill to the lives and health of the poorer classes of our population, and committing himself fully to its support, defeated it, and openly gave as a reason the discovery that its passage would remove two of his friends from office. This year the same paltry motive has controlled the votes of a still larger number. It is melancholy and disgraceful that men capable of acting from such motives should ever be intrusted with legislative power.

Amending the Code.

We do not believe that a Debating Society of young men ever existed through three consecutive weeks, without indulging at least twice during that time in the luxury of altering, amending or repealing its Constitution. There seems to be something supremely attractive of criticism and reform in any Constitution or laws for governing a Society, which is sure to put to utter route the tamer discussion of mere literary topics. This mania for law tinkering is not always confined to young men, or to societies avowedly organized for debate. Annually it seizes hold of the Legislature at Albany, and results in such a change of little out-of-the-way technicalities of our remarkable Code of Practice, as to render a new edition of that delectable production necessary at least once in two years. The lawyers grumble at legislative fun so expensive to them, and the booksellers rejoice in the plenty that results to their coffers.

Among all the schemes of plunder and corruption that have so largely occupied the attention of the Legislature this Winter, the immortal code has not been forgotten. Many of the changes made give evidence indisputable that the law-makers are human, and understand our new practice quite as imperfectly as the law-practitioners. Occasionally a real improvement is hit upon, though apparently not designed. When we consider the fact that in this City a cause put upon the calendar stands a reasonable chance of being reached in one or two years, and that, for each of the dozen or twenty terms that will occur in that time, both parties to a suit must give a notice of trial, no one can fail to see the excellence of one of the new amendments, which requires but a single notice in a single cause. That a change so palpably needed has not before been brought about, furnishes strong suspicions that even now it has been hit upon by accident.

Another amendment, conceived in the right spirit of checking the useless delay of repeated trials, is that which provides that the reversal of a judgment at General Term shall not be deemed a reversal of the facts, unless expressly so declared. Because counsel except to the rulings of the Court on points of law it seems utter folly to try anew the question of fact, already established. It is a very easy matter for a party dissatisfied with the result of a trial to except to law decisions of the Court and so go before a new jury with which he may hope to find greater favor. The amendment cuts off such practice as this, and allows a new trial only on the matters objected to. Hereafter there can be no inducement to appeal on factitious points, for the sake of going to a different jury. A single trial will settle the facts between the parties, and then the lawyers can fight it out with the Court to mutual satisfaction, without entailing the expense of compelling witnesses and jurymen to attend. The change will greatly expedite the process of law-suits.

In the dreadful dearth of decent acts which have come from Albany this Winter, we are all the more delighted to approve and praise the least appearance of right legislation, even if, to bring it about, the Legislature had to resort to a continuation of the unfortunate custom of tinkering the code.

THE ADAMS EXPRESS ROBBERY—A HEAVY REWARD.—The Adams Express Company have prosecuted their search for the property taken from their car on the New-Haven Railroad with great diligence, and more success than was to have been looked for. They have found—not, indeed, the oyster, but at least its shell. The safe which was thrown from the train while in motion, on Monday night, was discovered, yesterday, near the dépôt in Westport, Conn. It had been broken open with a chisel, and the contents abstracted. From the position in which it was found, it is evident that the robbery must have taken place shortly before the train reached the Norwalk drawbridge, at which point the train slackens its speed, and where the robber doubtless descended and walked back to examine his booty. The Company, it will be seen, offer a reward of $5,000 for the discovery of the perpetrator of this audacious act, and it is to be hoped that they may soon have occasion to draw their check for that handsome amount.

Miscellaneous.

—CHARLES BICKLEY, K. G. C., Aid-de-Camp to Commander-in-Chief of the Knights of the Golden Circle, is out with a card in defence of his principal. It will be remembered that the Knights in New-Orleans, some time since, held a meeting expelling Gen. BICKLEY from the Circle, appointing another Commander-in-Chief in his stead, and, also, a "receiver" for the assets of the institution. Sir CHARLES BICKLEY says that the order was established by Gen. BICKLEY, in the year 1854, since which time the General has devoted his time, talents and fortune to bringing it to its present position. (This, considering its "present position," sounds somewhat ironical.) He says that the K. G. C. was intended to embrace only gentlemen of character and respectability, but that in the establishment of the New-Orleans branch it was rather unfortunate, and gathered in rowdies, gamblers, and other disreputable elements. In regard to the "assets," &c., Sir CHARLES intimates that as the Order has none, the appointment of a receiver was useless. He says that Gen. BICKLEY will take no notice of his expulsion; that he has already issued a call for a Convention at Raleigh, N. C.; that steps will be taken to purge the order of all unworthy members; and that hereafter it will only consist of "Southern gentlemen, by birth, education and practice—men capable of building up a high grade of civilization in the country towards which their energies are directed." Really, according to Sir CHARLES BICKLEY's showing, the K. G. C. is quite as worthy an organization as the Tract Society, and will quite supersede the Board of Foreign Missions. Let us suggest Washington City as a very suitable point to concentrate their civilizing and christianizing efforts and energies.

—The ladies of Tennessee cannot be slandered with impunity. The Knoxville Register states that one O'HARA, in an angry discussion with a man by the name of SNOW, used some expressions which reflected discredit upon the ladies of Tennessee generally. Thereupon SNOW fell upon him, and the "winter of his discontent" speedily began. In a very short space of time, O'HARA was surrounded by an enraged mob, who at first proposed to take summary vengeance under the Lynch code, but eventually contented themselves with riding the offender on a rail, and advising him to leave the city, which disinterested advice he immediately followed. Thus the man that railed at Tennessee ladies received a railing in return, and hard knocks from the citizens of Knoxville.

—Steam fire-engines are "winning laurels" (we believe that is the right phrase) everywhere. At West Troy, day before yesterday, a row of valuable buildings, adjacent to another row which was a-blaze, was saved by the double-barreled steamers, which threw two streams to one from the hand-machines, and made less noise at that. The recent fires in Beekman-street and on shipboard, in this City, have proved a similar state of facts, establishing the superiority of the new apparatus over others which go by hand-power. It seems as if the only valid objection that can be urged against the steamers is their inability to vote. That defect in their organization, is, we admit, serious.

—The Daily Locomotive, published at Atlanta, Ga., lets off a little superfluous steam, as follows: "Are Southern papers to remain thus silent, and let their interests be taken care of by such papers as the Herald and NEW-YORK TIMES? Forbid it, Heaven!" The Daily Locomotive further says that "PRYOR is a young David, who may yet slay the Goliath of Abolitionism." This comparison is eminently felicitous, for PRYOR refused to "gird himself with a sword," and ran down to the Virginian beach to gather pebbles. But, in regard to the other thing, the Locomotive is quite off the track. In asking Heaven to shut off the TIMES and other newspaper blessings from the South, why does it not include the Sun?

—A lamentable state of things exists in Rensselaer County. The County Treasurer reports that the strong-box is empty; or, as the Whig expresses it, in the Trojan vernacular, there is "nary red" in the Treasury. Half a dozen towns have forgotten all about their obligations to give of their substance, and the tax-collectors are reported to be nearly beside themselves with anguish at the remissness of the rich old farmers of the county. Our Troy contemporaries are so busy discussing the impending bankruptcy that they have forgotten for a day or two to say anything about SHEAR's Express. We hope they will not forget their promise to help the circulation of the New-York papers.

—Within the space of a very few days, four Churches and an Academy were burned in Lincoln County, Tennessee. A half-witted individual by the name of JOHN RUDD, on being arrested on suspicion of having set fire to one of them, confessed that he had burned them all. He said that it was his intention to burn every Church in the County which was over ten years old, as he considered that by that time the buildings were pretty well worn out. He had allotted himself six months for the completion of this laudable enterprise. The arrangement, however, has been interfered with, and the authorities have allotted him a somewhat longer period in jail.

—Mr. J. D. DOUGALL, author of the Rifle Simplified, thinks that the perfection to which firearms are so rapidly attaining, contributes materially to the peace of the world. It is undoubtedly true that as the chances of men being killed in battle become multiplied, fewer people will be anxious to go into battle. And thus the makers of rifles may be called piece-makers in a double sense, and the blessing pronounced upon peacemakers will be doubly theirs.

—They have started Regattas in Texas, to the great delight of the Galvestonians. The prizes are silver pitchers, and the distance the yachts have to sail in their first encounter is 40 miles. It has been suggested that these yachtsmen are embryo defenders of "the Texan frontier," going through this exercise by way of training, a la Benicia Boy, for their coming fight.

MEETING OF THE CONSTITUTIONAL UNION CONVENTION—CHOICE OF DELEGATES TO THE NATIONAL CONVENTION AT BALTIMORE.

BALTIMORE, Thursday, April 19.

The Union State Constitutional Convention assembled at noon to-day, in Carroll Hall.

JAMES WALLACE, of Dorchester, was chosen temporary President.

Discussion ensued relative to the admission of two delegates from Baltimore, one representing the Union Convention, and the other the American Party. It was proposed to have both represented.

The attendance is large, and much interest is manifested in the proceedings.

The Convention settled the difficulty in regard to the different sets of delegates from Allegany County and Baltimore City, by admitting both.

Hon. DANIEL WESSELL, of Washington-County, was made permanent President.

A Committee of one from each County to prepare the business was appointed at the night session.

The Committee reported in favor of sending representatives to the National Constitutional Convention, and recommending the appointment of electors. The first resolution was adopted; the second, recommending the appointment of district electors, caused much discussion. Some thought the Convention should appoint electors only for the State at large, leaving the people of the districts to select their own electors.

The Missouri and Western Telegraph Company.

ST. LOUIS, Wednesday, April 18.

The Missouri and Western Telegraph Company was organized yesterday, by the election of C. M. STEBBINS, President and Treasurer; EDWARD CREIGHTON, General Agent; and ROBERT C. CLOWRY, Secretary and Superintendent. Among the corporators of this Company are CHARLES M. STEBBINS, of St. Louis; ISAAC R. ELWOOD, of Rochester; and J. H. WADE and ANSON STAGER, of Cleveland. This Company contemplates the immediate construction of a line to Omaha, Nebraska, and Council Bluffs, Iowa, extending westward to the Pike's Peak gold region; and it is then designed to push forward their Northern and Southern extensions as rapidly as possible. They will be prepared to connect with a Northern or Southern line to California, or both, if two are built, as is most likely to be the case, thus converging all the lines west of the Mississippi at this point, making St. Louis the great distributing centre of telegraph business between the Atlantic and Pacific stations.

THE CLERICAL MURDER CASE.

Trial of Rev. Jacob Harden for Wife-Murder—Testimony to Prove that Mrs. Harden Died from the Effects of Arsenic.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

SECOND DAY—AFTERNOON SESSION.

Court opened at 2 o'clock—Court-room crowded, gallery filled with ladies. Before proceeding with the witnesses the Court cautioned the jury as to deputations among themselves as to the guilt or innocence of the prisoner.

Mary Jane Vamichel, sworn, on the part of the State: Was present at the death-bed of Mrs. Harden, and testified to the incidents of the scene.

The physicians who made the post-mortem examination were next placed upon the stand. They described in similar terms the autopsy, and its revelations, and concurred in the belief that the lady perished a victim to poison.

Dr. James R. Chilton sworn on the part of the State—I reside in the City of New-York; I am a chemist; I have been extensively engaged in the business for thirty-five years; on the 7th of April, 1859, I received from Jno. B. Noolston the following articles: A low, wide-mouth glass bottle, containing a stomach and some liquid; the bottle was labeled Hannah Louisa Harden's stomach, taken from her body March 10, 1859—a large bottle containing her liver—a bottle containing a small quantity of her blood—a glass jar containing her intestines and pancua—a jar containing the bladder and kidneys of Mrs. Harden; I placed them in my laboratory, under lock and key, and no person had access to them; I commenced with the stomach; the contents were emptied into a basin, and found in a red and inflamed state; one of the patches was about 1¼ inches in diameter—the other smaller; some small specks were found adhering to the stomach; these were separated and dried; they weighed twelve one-hundredths of a grain; they were placed upon a burning coal, and emitted a smell like arsenic. The witness here detailed the various processes made use of by him in making his chemical tests. From the experiments made by him he came to the conclusion that white arsenic existed in considerable quantities in the stomach of Mrs. Harden.

The testimony of Dr. CHILTON was long, and very interesting to those who were able to appreciate the scientific character of his subject, but to the mass of those who heard him it was totally destitute of interest. The result of his tests and experiments, after all, is what the jury and community desire to know. The witness placed before the Court and jury a case containing as many as a dozen small tubes, sealed up, all of which contained white arsenic in considerable quantities, taken from the stomach and other organs of the body of the deceased Mrs. HARDEN.

Before concluding the examination of Dr. CHILTON, the Court adjourned until to-morrow morning 9 o'clock.

THIRD DAY—MORNING SESSION.

BELVIDERE, Thursday, April 19.

Court opened at 9 o'clock. Court-room and gallery filled with people. The prisoner looks pale, but perfectly self-possessed.

Dr. James R. Chilton recalled by the State.

The principal examination of this witness was continued at considerable length. During the examination he minutely described the different processes and tests resorted to by him to ascertain the presence of arsenic in the different parts of the body of Mrs. Harden.

The cross-examination made no important additions or variations to the direct.

Mrs. Caroline Ramsay, sworn on the part of the State.—I reside near Anderson, in this County; I am the widow of Daniel C. Ramsay; acquainted with Harden and his wife for some time; never spoke to her until she came to my house shortly after her marriage; he had his home at James Beatty's when he was married; he moved his home to my house in the Spring of 1859; she staid over night; took her away on Monday morning; they were going to her father's; he came back same day; he slept in his room that night; he brought her again not long after; don't know where he brought her from; he took her to his father's after he removed to my house; he took her from my house part of the way only, as far as Allaumchy; he said his brother was there, and he did not take her further; she staid at his fathers about three weeks; Harden brought her back; went one day and came the next; came by way of our house; took dinner, and took her to her father's; she came back soon, and staid about a week; she came again the same month, and staid two or three days; her father brought her there one day, and took her back with him in the latter part of February; the next time she was there was when Mrs. Geary was there; she arrived on Tuesday in the evening, before tea, and took tea; she appeared as usual since she had a cold; they retired about ten o'clock; being shown diagram of the house says it represents the house where Mr. Harden died; counsel for defence excepts to an examination of witness upon this diagram; exception overruled; witness then stated the situation of the inside arrangements; I first saw his wife on her last arrival; she was in the sitting room; don't remember whether she took breakfast next morning; she was sick when she arose and had been so during the night; she said she had been sick since midnight; heard him say so before breakfast; heard both say she had been sick at the stomach; they said she vomited; think she lay on the lounge some part of yesterday; she took ginger that night; Mr. Harden prepared it for her; it was prepared in molasses; took it in the cellar where molasses barrel was to prepare it; took ginger from shelf in cellar way; this was prepared in the forepart of the evening; did not see her take it; heard her say she had taken ginger; don't remember the state of her stomach on Wednesday; she was sick on Wednesday night; she slept in my room on Wednesday night; she was sick three times that night; she asked for cold water during the night; she was sick at the stomach and vomited; I made her a cup of tea on Wednesday night after tea; she got up on Thursday morning before I did; her stomach was more settled in the morning; I left home about 10 o'clock, and returned about dark.

Later from Havana.

ARRIVAL OF THE DE SOTO—THE WEATHER—INTERNAL IMPROVEMENTS—MOVEMENTS OF STEAMERS.

The United States Mail steamship De Soto, J. D. BULLOCH, Commander, from New-Orleans on the 12th, and Havana at 1 P. M. of the 15th inst., arrived here yesterday morning, in three days and twenty-two hours from the latter port.

Nothing of especial interest had occurred in Havana since the sailing of the last steamer. The city had settled down into the usual Summer quiet and routine, visitors and pleasure seekers having mostly left for cooler latitudes. On Sunday, the 15th, the Captain-General, with the Civil Secretary of the Government, made a visit of inspection to the new iron warehouse at Regla, attended by the President and Superintendent of the Regla Company. This warehouse, now nearly completed, is of great size, said to have room for the storage of 360,000 boxes sugar.

At 4 o'clock P. M. of the 14th, the United States screw-steamer Crusader, Lieut.-Commanding J. N. MAFFIT, sailed for Key West, to communicate with her consort, the Mohawk; thence to proceed with dispatch to her cruising ground off the east end of Cuba. The Crusader had left Pensacola on the 11th inst., and reports the new steam-corvette Seminole nearly ready for sea. She was taking on board her battery, and was to sail for Norfolk on the 15th of the current month.

The Spanish screw-frigate Petronila (the finest ship in their navy) was to sail on Monday, the 22d instant, for Norfolk, Va., to meet the newly-appointed Spanish Minister to Mexico, and to convey him to Vera Cruz. The Peninsular Spaniards in Havana seemed disappointed at the news of peace with Morocco; they wished for greater triumphs and larger conquests, and more glory to the arms of Spain.

IMPORTANT FROM ALBANY.

The Canal Board Instructing the Auditor to Demand Payment of Tolls—The Commissioners of the Canal Fund Instruct the Attorney-General to Commence a Suit for the Recovery of Tolls Since 1851.

From Our Own Correspondent.

ALBANY, Thursday, April 19, 1860.

The Governor has yet about a dozen bills on his table, not signed. Among them is the Insolvent act. I think it will be signed, and yet become a law.

The crowd in attendance on the Legislature has clean gone—except those interested in the Supply bill, who have transferred their attendance from the Capital to the State Hall, and beleaguer the Comptroller instead of the Senate and Assembly.

The Legislature having failed to do anything about reimposing tolls, efforts are to be made by the State officers to enforce the views expressed by the Attorney-General, that the law of 1851, releasing the Railroads from the payment of tolls, is unconstitutional. At a meeting of the Canal Board yesterday, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the Rules and Regulations heretofore adopted in regard to freight on Railroads west of Utica, under chapter 270 of the laws of 1847, be readopted and applied to the Central Railroad, so far as applicable thereto; and that said Central Railroad Company be required to make returns and pay tolls in the same manner as the Railroad Companies consolidated to form the said Central Railroad Company were required to do under and in pursuance of said act.

There was but one Democratic member of the Board present—Mr. SKINNER, Canal Commissioner—but he did not vote.

Shortly afterwards, at a meeting of the Commissioners of the Canal Fund, the following resolutions were adopted, all those present voting in favor of them. Mr. JONES, the Democratic member of the Commission, was not present:

Resolved, That the Auditor of the Canal Department be and is hereby instructed to ascertain the amount of Tolls due from the Central Railroad Company to the State, and from the several railroad companies which were consolidated into the said Central Railroad Company, which would have accrued had not the act of July 10, 1851, been passed, stating the sum and amount due from each respectively.

Resolved, That the Auditor be and is hereby required to demand and receive payment of such several sums of and from the said Central Railroad Company.

Resolved, That in case the Central Railroad Company shall fail to pay any sums due and demanded under the above resolutions, the Attorney-General be and is hereby instructed to prosecute for the collection thereof, and to employ such additional counsel as he may desire to aid him in such actions.

The following article in the act of consolidation is relied on as holding the Central Railroad responsible for the tolls imposed previous to the adoption of the law of 1851:

SEC. 5. The rights of creditors of any corporation that shall be consolidated, shall not in any manner be impaired by any act of consolidation, nor shall any liability or obligation for the payment of any money now due or hereafter to become due to the State, or any individual, or any claim or demand for damages for any act done, or neglect suffered by any such corporation be in any manner released or impaired, but such new corporation is declared to succeed to such obligations and liabilities, and to be held liable to pay and discharge all the debts and liabilities of each of the corporations that shall be so consolidated, whether on contract, or for misconduct or neglect, either to this State or to individuals, and it shall be liable to have action brought against it to enforce the payment of any money or damages or the performance of any duty which any corporation consolidated into such new corporation was liable to pay or perform, in the same manner as if such new corporation had incurred the obligation or liability to pay such money or damages, or perform such duty; and no suit, action or other proceedings now pending before any court or tribunal in which any railroad company that may be consolidated is a party, shall be deemed to have abated or discontinued, by reason of any such agreement of consolidation; but the same may be prosecuted to final judgment in the same manner as if the said corporation had not entered into such agreement of consolidation; or the said new corporation may be substituted as a party in the place of any corporation of which it shall be composed, by order of the court in which such action, suit or proceeding may be pending.

I understand that Hon. JOHN H. REYNOLDS has been retained by the Attorney-General, to assist in the prosecution of the suit for the recovery of the tolls. Mr. REYNOLDS is one of the ablest lawyers in the State. Associated with the Attorney-General, the two will be likely to present the case in the courts to the best advantage.

It is estimated that the tolls to be paid to the State, in the event that the law of '51 is declared unconstitutional, would amount to $3,500,000. The State officers entertain no doubt of success.

The Greater Excommunication—The Emperor and the Pope—The New Italian Kingdom—The New Consul at Havre—Varieties.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PARIS, Monday, April 2, 1860.

The excommunication by the Pope of everybody who aided or abetted in the spoliation of the States of the Church, includes, of course, LOUIS NAPOLEON; and thus the publication of the bull in this form created much surprise at the Tuileries, as well as among the public. Whatever may have been the later acts of the Emperor of the French, it was not to be forgotten that his army saved the Pope twelve years ago, and that it is his army which still renders Rome a possible residence for his Holiness.

The Legitimists are delighted at this state of things. An open rupture between Paris and Rome is manna or them, for through such a rupture they hope to gain over the clergy of France,—that clergy for which LOUIS NAPOLEON has done so much. Many of the aristocratic young men of the Faubourg St. Germain, belonging to families who hold to the memory of the Bourbons as the romance of their life, are preparing to join the Pontifical troops in case the French army is withdrawn from Rome, and Gen. LAMORICIERE takes command there. The censure heaped upon this gentleman at Paris is universal outside the ranks of the French haters of LOUIS NAPOLEON. But Gen. LAMORICIERE, notwithstanding his marked ability, has long been regarded in France as one of those soured, disappointed men, whose ambition outran his judgment, and whose future usefulness was completely neutralized. The fact is, he never recovered from his defeat by Gen. CAVAIGNAC, in June, 1848, and it might be added that he has never forgiven the nation for preferring CAVAIGNAC to himself.

The Emperor is thus relieved from all considerations of delicacy toward the Pope, and every one asks, What next? The answer is, Italy is to be given up to her own destinies; that is to say, the French troops are to be withdrawn, Austria is to be restrained from passing the Mincio without a cause personal to herself, and Piedmont will be left face to face with the Pope and the King of Naples. And then, who does not see what is to be the result? All Italy will be constituted under one Government, the power of the Pope will be reduced to the dimensions indicated in the pamphlet, The Pope and the Congress, the Court of VICTOR EMANUEL, King of Italy, will be removed to Rome, and the Pope, become a spiritual ruler, will have no need of soldiers to maintain his supremacy.

This is the programme laid down by the new kingdom of Northern Italy, and its execution will be certainly attempted. It was in view, not of the Sardinia of to-day, but of that which is to be, that NAPOLEON claimed, as a necessity for the security of France, the annexation of the French slopes of the Alps. A war between Sardinia and Naples and Rome is just as certain as any event in the future can be, and such a war can have but one termination—the triumph of the Sardinian arms; and then the dream of the Italian people—a united nation, and an emancipation from the Government of the Priesthood—will be realized. If VICTOR EMANUEL is not made King of Italy, there will be at least an Italian Confederation; there will be no Bourbons at Naples, no foreign Princes with foreign dictation and foreign influences, and no ANTONELLIS.

The influential Neapolitans at Paris—and the city is full of them—declare that they are going to bring about a revolution in the same peaceful, dignified manner as was accomplished at Tuscany, Modena and Parma. They will not shed a drop of blood if they can help it; but, when all is prepared, the change will take place in an hour, and no noise will be made about it. But it is difficult to conceive of such a result in the present state of things. There are many far-seeing politicians, however, who predict that before five years, not only will Naples, but Hungary, and, perhaps, Croatia, declare themselves free in this peaceable method. There is a strong party, too, at work to bring about these results, and this party is no where stronger than in England. They look to nothing less, in the east of Europe, than the dismemberment and annihilation of Austria.

One great fact, however, is secured, and one that will prove the leaven of many more, and that is the destruction in Italy of the political influence of the priesthood. This was the bane, the incubus of the country, as every one knows, and the Italians are at last convinced of the fact. From this position there can be no return, and from this fact alone we are authorized in believing that a new era has commenced for that beautiful but unfortunate country.

We are again promised a pamphlet on Venetia from the author of The Pope and the Congress. If such a work should be published, we may safely predict beforehand that it will propose the sale to Piedmont as the most rational solution of the question.

On his arrival from Rome yesterday, M. LOUIS VEUILLOT, late editor of the Univers, and captain-general of the Ultramontanes in France, received a domiciliary visit from the police. Very important papers are said to have been seized in his possession.

Miss CUMMINGS, author of the Lamplighter, is about to copyright and publish a new novel in London, at the house of SAMPSON, LOW & CO. Miss JOHNSON'S new book, The Cottages of the Alps, published by the same house, will appear in two handsomely illustrated volumes. Including Mrs. STOWE, these are the only American ladies, I believe, who have ever had books copyrighted in England. It is probable, however, that the author of the Wide, Wide World, will add another to this list soon.

Mr. GRUND, the new Consul at Havre, in place of Mr. VESEY, has arrived and entered upon the duties of his office. Mr. VESEY will soon return to the United States, but it is to be hoped that the talents of so useful and accomplished a man will not be forgotten by the Administration, since there are so many places, especially abroad, where he would be "the right man in the right place." The people of Havre, where Mr. VESEY was a sort of king, especially in the adjudication of all maritime disputes, will long regret his departure.

I spoke in this place some weeks ago of the sufferings of a young woman of good family from New-York who had escaped to Europe with her lover, and who was now destitute of means and anxious to return home. I refer to the subject again in order to pay a just compliment in this public manner to our Consul at Paris, who has shown at all times a liberality and a zeal in the treatment of his countrymen which entitle him to all the praise we can bestow. Through his exertions money enough was raised to send the young woman in question to her friends; while others contributed to her comfort here, it was only by the activity of Mr. SPENCER that the large sum was raised necessary to pay the passage home on the steamer.

You and the public ought to take note of the fact that papers and letters by the Portland steamers arrive in Paris regularly in advance of those mailed at the same time in the Cunard line, owing partly to the stoppage of the Cunarders at Cork. This week the Portland mail was three days in advance.

Mr. WM. GUIZOT, son of the distinguished writer and statesman, is about to marry a daughter of one of the oldest houses of the South of France, Mlle GABRIELLE VERDIER DE CLAUX, of Nimes. Miss HUTTON, of New-York, is soon to be married to the Marquis DE PORTES, the only male representative of a Toulouse family, of which the nobiliary rank dates from 1747. Monsieur DE PORTES is the son of the deceased Senator of that name, by his second wife, Mlle. GEORGIANA MARTEL; two daughters of the first marriage, contracted with Mlle. DE LAPLACE, married the Count COLBERT and the Marquis TEXIER D'HAUTEFEUILLE.

A Paris musical critic, in paying a compliment to the talent of Miss ISABELLA HINCKLEY, of Albany, now the prima donna of the Grand Opera at Amsterdam, calls her Mlle. ISABELLA INCLI! The writer belongs to the school of "realists."

The Academy of Sciences of Paris occupied a part of its last sitting in discussing the question whether there still remained any bears in the County of Michigan, United States.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—An audience of nearly a thousand persons, comprising the élite of the musical public of New-York, assembled by invitation at the Academy yesterday morning to witness what we may call the tentative début of a young lady of this City, who has been devoting the last three years to preparation for the career of a lyric artist. This lady, Miss LOUISA KELLOGG, is still in the very budding prime of youth; far too young to commence in earnest a life so arduous and exacting as that of a prima donna must be for a singer who possesses her really remarkable qualities of intellect and of voice. Her appearance of yesterday, therefore, we hope, is only to be regarded as a brilliant point reached in her studies, and not as her definitive entrance upon her profession. Judged in this light, Miss KELLOGG's execution of the striking and difficult rôle selected for her in "Il Poliuto" must be chronicled as the most interesting musical event of the current season. In point of force and of quality, this young lady's voice leaves nothing to be desired which time and simple physical development may not be reasonably expected to bring to her. In the upper register it is singularly fresh, vigorous and expressive; and it possesses, beyond a question that rarest and most precious of vocal qualities, a musical magnetism of tone pliant to the will of the singer, and carrying the sentiment of her song directly to the musical consciousness of the hearer. Under all the disadvantages of a rehearsal out of costume, Miss KELLOGG made this gift of hers "tell" with emphatic effect, in the brilliant cavatina of the first act, and in her duo with BRIGNOLI. How difficult it is for an inexperienced singer to do this, when tenor and baritone and chorus alike stalk unconcernedly about the stage in the round hat and pantaloons of common Broadway life, and a dim twilight of mingling day and gas robs the house of its stimulating splendor, we need not say. For a débûtante to achieve so positive an effect upon her first appearance before a great audience, and thrown almost entirely upon her own resources by the utter absence of any attempt at dramatic action on the part of the company, was certainly little less than amazing.

In point of technical skill, Miss KELLOGG is already the superior of such singers as PICCOLOMINI and GAZZANIGA, though she has not yet attained the executive facility become almost a second nature with ADELINA PATTI. And there can be little doubt that she might now command an easy popularity upon the stage. But she still needs, and will evidently put to profitable use, so much in the way of dramatic as well as of strictly musical culture. She is, in other words, so fairly organized for a really great and durable operatic success, that we hope, in the interest of American art as well as in her own, to hear that her public début has been postponed for the present. It is worth while for us occasionally in America to let our good fruit ripen before we eat it. Miss KELLOGG has all imaginable personal advantages for the stage; a presence at once graceful and simple; earnestness combined with mobility of expression; singularly brilliant eyes, and much natural dignity of carriage.

A new candidate for public favor—Mme. BANTI—will make her début at the Academy to-night in VERDI's opera of "Ernani." Signor MACCAFERRI plays the part of the hero. The lady comes to us from the theatres of Brazil, where she has won and enjoyed a reputation.

WINTER GARDEN.—"Lucrezia Borgia"—an opera which enjoys a reputation with the public as well as with managers—was played here on Wednesday night to a fine house. The work is so well known that under ordinary circumstances any special consideration at the hands of the critic would be superfluous. Its merits, both musical and dramatic, are now so fully recognized—even by German critics, who at one time howled so dismally about the vulgarity and ignorance of DONIZETTI as in the present day they do about the qualities of VERDI—that an analysis of the points of the opera would excite merriment, if it did not provoke locked-jaw. A thoroughly accepted opera only derives new interest from the fresh casts which successive managements bestow on it. Mr. MARETZEK, who understands this matter better than any other man, never gives us an old thing without a new object. Last night the distribution of parts was almost entirely new. Madame FREZZOLINI was the Lucrezia; Miss ANNA WISSLER, the Orsino; Signor GASSIER, the Alphonso, and Signor ERRANI, the Genarro.

Of the lady whose rentrée was made on this occasion we can speak in terms of the heartiest appreciation. Although not a stranger to a New-York audience, she has never, we venture to say, been heard to such decided advantage. Her voice, without possessing much power, is still exquisitely beautiful in quality, and her artistic management of it so admirable that it is already a tradition of the lyric stage. No singer has ever visited America who can compare with Mme. FREZZOLINI in the absolute essentials of musical elocution. She knows precisely the amount of emphasis that should be bestowed on a phrase, and, what is a rarer knowledge, the delicacy of coloring of which it is susceptible. Her slow movements are revelations of beauty; in the fast ones the wear and tear of Time are perceptible. It is said that the lady was laboring under a throat disease when she made her début at the Academy. This—and the important circumstance of singing in a smaller theatre—accounts for the marked success which the lady obtained on Wednesday evening. Her performance was received with the warmest favor, and will bear repetition.

Miss WISSLER is of German parentage but a Philadelphian by birth. Her education in the musical art—and she can sing in all languages known to it—has been perfected in Europe, where she has studied under the best masters. She is not, however, a prodigy; simply an intelligent woman, who clearly sees what should be done, and does it to the best of a vast capacity. Her voice is remarkable for its purity and for possessing all the genuine characteristics of the true contralto. It is of prodigious power, and for this reason somewhat unmanageable, although eminently dramatic and overwhelming. It seems to be of good compass, and especially rich in the lower tones. She sang down to F without effort and delivered that extreme tone with a roundness which we have seldom heard equalled. Her executive power cannot be accurately judged in "Lucrezia," where the opportunities are few. They are probably good and certainly clean so far as heard. The natural nervousness of a first night embarrassed the lady, but her scene in the first act was excellently rendered, and evoked a burst of applause which was a success in itself. The Brindisi in the third act displayed the quality of her voice to the greatest advantage, and created an extremely favorable impression. With a reasonable amount of stage experience and the confidence it brings, there cannot be a doubt that Miss WISSLER will take the highest place in the ranks of living contralti. No finer voice has been heard here.

Signor ERRANI was admirable as Genarro. The steady qualities of a true artist are perceptible in all that this gentleman undertakes. He improves on acquaintance. Signor GASSIER was of course excellent, as he always is in this part.

The way in which operas are produced at this house is worthy of the highest commendation. They are given entire, not with a duet cut out from this act and an aria from the next, but with fidelity to the author's intentions.

The costumes are superb, much finer than what we now see at the Academy of Music, and the scenery, with some exceptions in this particular opera, worthy of the Winter Garden. Another point of excellence is that in the ensembles Mr. MARETZEK's Stage Manager avoids mobs; he does not crowd his chorus into an extreme corner of the stage, but distributes the individuals who compose it in a human way. Things of this kind are so often disregarded at lyric establishments, that they deserve to be noted when properly attended to. The orchestra, under Mr. MARETZEK's able direction, was all that could be desired.

To-night FLOTOW's opera of "Allessandro Stradella" will be given in German, with Mlle FABBRI, Signors STIGELLI, WEINLICH, MULLER and others in the cast.

"Down with the Rents."
A SONG FOR THE FIRST OF MAY.
BY NAPOLEON B QUIGG.

What are we to do—we, the honest poor,
Who win our daily bread
By the hardest of toil that limbs can endure,
And the ache of the weary head?
What are we to do for places to sleep—
Shall we live in caves, or in tents?
A dollar in pocket no mortal can keep,
Unless they will lower the rents!

So, down with the rents! give us brick and stone,
At rents we can honestly pay,
And a cheer for the landlords, instead of a groan
We'll give on the next first of May!
Perhaps we can buy—oh, blissful hope!
Most needed and wished of events—
A new suit of clothes, instead of a rope,
If the landlords will lower their rents.

So, down with the rents—yes, all the rents—
The rents in our clothes as well;
You can save many dollars, and shillings, and cents,
If you will heed the advice we tell.
SMITH BROTHERS sell low, and their garments are strong,
Every bargain they give contents;
So, to Fulton st go and 'twill not be long
Ere you're done with all clothing rents!

De Borbon, in the City of Reading, the property known as the Reading Steam Forge, in the said city. Shutes run outside the building, by which coal, scrap iron, &c., can be dumped close to each furnace, without extra cost for hauling or labor. This Forge is capable of executing the heaviest work, having forged and finished the main shafts of the Adriatic, (believed to be the largest ever made,) besides complete sets of forgings for numerous steamships for Government and other. The city of Reading presents peculiar advantages for the successful operation of such a forge. It is within 58 miles of Philadelphia, connected therewith by the Reading Railroad, and the Schuylkill (160 ton) Canal; 128 miles by rail direct from New-York; 138 from Baltimore; 54 from Harrisburgh and 54 from the Schuylkill coal region, whence the best anthracite coal can be placed at the furnace doors for about $2 25 per ton. Reading is situated in one of the finest agricultural districts of Pennsylvania, has a population of 25,000, and is noted for its general health and the purity of its water. Green-house, ice-house and stables, with nine stalls and ample carriage room; one of the entrances is a carriage-drive of over half a mile, well graveled. A description of this place is to be found in Downing's work on "Landscape Gardening," page 36.

The property will be sold as a whole or in parcels, as designated on the lithographic maps to be seen at the Merchants' Exchange, or at the office of the auctioneers, No. 23 Nassau-st.—the same being also staked out on the grounds. CITY INTELLIGENCE.

Valued Testimonial.—The Baltimore American has the following: "When that noble body of citizen soldiery, the Seventh Regiment, of New-York, returned from their recent visit to Washington, the Seventh Company was profusely provided with more than a soldier's fare by one of their warmest friends, Col. Coleman, of the Eutaw House, who supposed that the matter was scarcely worthy of more than a passing notice. He was surprised, therefore, upon being called upon by a Committee of the Company, who presented him with the following acknowledgment, inclosed in a most chaste and superb frame, and executed in a style of penmanship which we have never yet seen equalled. It is very highly prized by the recipient, and is suspended from a conspicuous place in the house:"

NEW-YORK STATE MILITIA.

Armory Seventh Company, Seventh Regiment,
National Guard,
New-York, March 12, 1860.

R. B. Coleman, Esq., Eutaw House, Baltimore, Md.:

My Dear Sir: The welcome and pleasing duty of conveying to you, Sir, on behalf of Company Seven, National Guard, Seventh Regiment, New-York State Militia, an expression of their warmest acknowledgments for your liberal and magnanimous conduct to them and the Regiment to which they are attached, during their recent trip through your city to participate in the festivities of the inauguration of the statue of Gen. George Washington, at the Capital of the United States, has been assigned to the subscribers by resolution of said Company. Permit us, therefore, in behalf of this Company, (while at the same time we reiterate the universal sentiment of the Regiment,) to say, your gentlemanly and bountiful provision of the creature comforts, while in Baltimore, to our Regiment, has created on our part feelings of the liveliest appreciation of the disinterested and honorable impulses by which you have so agreeably placed us under lasting obligations.

In conclusion, we can only add, upon recurring to the pleasing incidents of our trip, none have left more happy recollections than your munificent hospitality, of which we are all eager to testify our personal appreciation. Sincerely trusting that increased fame and success shall follow the name of "Coleman and the Eutaw House," we are, most truly, your obedient servants.

New-York Academy of Medicine.—Revision of the Pharmacopœia.—The regular semi monthly meeting of the New-York Academy of Medicine was held, Wednesday evening, in the small chapel of the University, the President, Dr. Watson, in the Chair. Dr. Squibb, on behalf of a joint Committee from the Academy and the New-York College of Pharmacy, appointed to take into consideration the "Revision of the United States Pharmacopœia," read a long and very able report upon the subject, commenting upon the errors of the present work, its omissions and defects, as well as its excellences and superiorities over most European works of a similar nature, and proposing numerous amendments, alterations and additions to it. Among the principal was the proposition to change the standard weights and measures so vitally as to even give up these terms and to substitute the term "parts." By this substitution many errors will be avoided, as no matter what may be the quantity of any compound preparation, if composed of so many "parts" of each ingredient, every quantity must be identical in character and proportions. The reading of the paper was received with great favor, and ordered to be printed immediately, and not only circulated among the members in order to facilitate a future discussion upon it, but also to be sent to the approaching decennial meeting at Washington of the Pharmaceutists of the United States, an important portion of whose labors it is expected will be discussion of the subject of this paper. The President calling upon members for their opinions upon the report, Dr. J. M. Smith expressed himself as highly approving of the leading features of the paper, spoke of the importance of the undertaking; considering the accuracy of pharmaceutical preparations, and a correct knowledge of their properties as being next in importance to diagnosis, for the treatment of disease. There being no further remarks nor other business, the Academy adjourned.

The Sixty-ninth Regiment and their Visit to Ireland—Invitation from Louis Napoleon.—The Board of Aldermen have of late been so exercised with purely civic matters, they seem to have overlooked, or purposely neglected, the very important matter connected with the regiment which heads this article; and it is not impossible that even the members of the regiment are not yet officially informed of what has transpired in regard to their contemplated visit to Ireland, which has been forbidden by Lord John Russell, and their subsequent invitation to visit France, tendered by the Emperor Napoleon III. If any Alderman has the moral courage to offer a resolution of inquiry on this national question, some interesting facts may be elicited which might possibly turn to elucidate the action of this Board of Magnates so far as "advice and consent" are concerned, and it may eventuate in giving publicity to the letter (written by authority) inviting the gallant Sixty-ninth Regiment to visit France. The letter, we are informed, is in possession of one of the leading officers of the Regiment, who also holds a commission signed by the County Clerk, which authorizes him to vote for his constituents; but why he has refrained from giving to it the publicity which its importance demanded, is beyond our comprehension. We can (by authority) assure the members of the gallant Sixty-ninth that such a letter was written, for the writer of this paragraph has read it, in English and French.

Assessments for the Central Park Extension.—A correspondent complains of the unfairness with which property in the neighborhood is assessed for the extension of the Central Park. The extension includes the land from One Hundred and Sixth to One Hundred and Tenth streets, between Fifth and Eighth avenues. "But, according to the announcement of the Commissioners," says our correspondent "south of the extension, property will be assessed that lies within one mile of the limits; easterly and westerly, what lies within ½ of a mile—two avenue blocks; northerly, what lies within about two and-a-half miles—forty-five blocks—from the upper end of the extension. No property west of Tenth-avenue will be assessed, except what is north of One Hundred and Tenth-street, e. g., property on One Hundred and Fifth-street and Eleventh-avenue will not be assessed, while that on One Hundred and Fifty-fifth-street and the same avenue will be assessed, though the latter is nearly three miles further distant from the Park! But what is most surprising is, that between One Hundred and Sixth and One Hundred and Tenth streets, immediately adjoining said improvement, consequently to receive the greatest benefit therefrom, property is not to be assessed at all!"

Encampment of the Seventh Regiment in Buffalo.—The Buffalo Express says: "As it is to be presumed that everybody did not read the Council proceedings yesterday morning, we may mention that there is a strong probability that the famous Seventh Regiment, of New-York City, will make this the place of their annual encampment during the present season. The Common Council was informed yesterday by Mr. T. T. Bloomer, that the Regiment was inclined to pitch its tents in this city, but had received invitations from several other places, with liberal offers of contributions towards defrayment of the expenses. Mr. T. suggested to the Council the propriety of appropriating $500 for that purpose, offering in such case to contribute the same sum himself. The Council promptly acted upon the suggestion, and it can probably be regarded as a pretty sure thing that the scene of the next encampment of the renowned Seventh will be in this vicinity. At what time it occurs we do not know."

Reunion of the Philomathean Society.—The members of the Philomathean Society had a pleasant reunion, at the rooms of the Historical Society, last evening. In the introductory address, which was delivered soon after 8 o'clock, Mr. W. C. H. Griffin, President of the Society, spoke of the importance of mental culture. He was followed by Mr. Franklin Wiley, who discussed true genius; and then Rev. Matthew Hale Smith was announced as a substitute for Hon. Caleb Lyon, who was unavoidably prevented from being present. The burden of Mr. Smith's remarks was the rapid strides which the human intellect had made in this nineteenth century. After he had concluded, Miss Lizzie Petit read a portion of the "Taming of the Shrew." Mr. J. L. Kanes followed with a Poem; Mr. J. H. Saats with an Essay; and the exercises of the evening were concluded by the reading of extracts from "Romeo and Juliet"—Miss Petit sustaining the latter character, and Mr. J. C. Runkle the former.

Annual Banquet of E. V. Haughwout & Co.—The twenty-eighth annual dinner to their employes, given by Messrs. Haughwout & Co. last evening, was a pleasant affair. Three hundred of those employed at the extensive establishment sat down to the feast, and listened to the speeches of Mr. Haughwout, Rev. Drs. Thompson, Bethune and Adams, Messrs. W. Dwight, F. E. Howe and others. The good things edible were provided with the usual munificence of the proprietors, and of the good things verbal it is only necessary to say that they were in the best vein of the orators, most of whom our readers have at some time or other listened to with gratification. The history of the house was recounted, the relations of employers and employed were descanted upon, and the dignity of labor was made evident and enforced by a variety of apposite illustrations. It was late when the company separated.

Seventh Regiment—Left Wing Drill.—The rush for tickets to this drill, last evening, demonstrated the increasing interest that is felt in our citizen soldiery. It is feared that the crowd of friends of the Regiment attending these drills may occasion the withdrawal of the Colonel's permission to have them public. The plea, it is said, will be, that the applause and the presence of so many bright eyes, besides severely testing the building, tends to distract the attention of the men. Fortunately the new drill-room in Tompkins Market will have special galleries for the accommodation of visitors, so as not to interfere with the movements of the regiment. The last drill of the left wing of the Seventh appeared to evince decided improvement.

Republican Central Campaign Club.—The weekly meeting of the above Club was held last evening at Clinton Hall. There was a full attendance, Mr. Draper, the President, in the Chair. Several new members, who had been nominated at the previous meeting, were elected. Mr. Draper addressed the meeting, apologizing for non-attendance. A Committee to consider the practicability of a fusion with the Young Men's Republican Union, was appointed. Some discussion was occasioned by Mr. George W. Blunt, who referred to the appointments about to be made by the Comptroller of Commissioners of Public Charities, and hoped no man would be appointed who had abetted nullification of State laws, the allusion being to Supervisor Bell. Mr. Draper begged that the Comptroller would be left to the unlimited employment of his own discretion; and carried the Club with him.

A Dying Man Ejected from a Car by Mistake.—The singular conduct of a well-dressed man who was riding down town, about 7 o'clock last evening, in a Sixth-avenue Railroad car, led the conductor to believe that he was intoxicated, and on reaching the corner of West Broadway and Canal-street, the offensive passenger was ejected from the vehicle. He fell speechless to the ground, and Peter Rafferty, a cartman, whose stand is in the vicinity, had pity upon him, and conveyed him to the Fifth Precinct Station-house, whence he was conveyed to the New-York Hospital. It was there discovered that the stranger was suffering from an apoplectic attack, and he died soon after his admission. Deceased had the appearance of a person in good circumstances, and was probably 40 years of age. On the watch-pocket of his pantaloons the name W. H. Lyons was marked.

Second Presbytery of New-York.—The annual Session of the Second Presbytery of New-York (Old School) was held on Monday at Dr. McElroy's Church, in Fourteenth-street, near Sixth-avenue. Rev. M. T. Adams, of this City, was elected Moderator for the ensuing year. Reports were received from the various churches in the Presbytery, and the usual routine business was transacted. Rev. Dr. Halliday and Mr. Maurice, ruling Elder, were appointed delegates to the General Assembly to be held at Rochester, in May. The Presbytery adjourned to Monday morning next at the same place, to receive Rev. Mr. Henry, of Chicago, who has recently been elected colleague of Rev. Dr. McElroy.

Alleged Indecent Assault.—The case of Mr. Thomas J. Munday, charged with an indecent assault upon the daughter of Mr. Allen, a policeman, was called up in Special Sessions yesterday, Justices Steers, Kelly, and Welsh presiding. Mr. Sidney A. Stuart appeared for Mr. Charles S. Spencer, counsel for the defendant, who is ill. He asked for an adjournment of the case on that ground. Mr. Munday, in the course of a few remarks to the Court, claimed that the whole story had been trumped up by the father of the young lady in revenge for his having had him broken ten years ago for drunkenness while on his post. After consultation the Court agreed to transfer the case to the General Sessions.

The Sanitary Squad.—Sergeant Lord, of the Eighteenth Precinct, Patrolmen Brower, of the Steamboat Squad, Wark, of the Eighth, Forbes, of the Nineteenth, A. V. Davis, of the Fifth, and Houston, of the Second Precinct, were yesterday detailed, by the President of the Board of Police Commissioners, as a Sanitary Police, under the provisions of the new Police act.

Sudden Death of a Drunkard.—A laboring man named Patrick Shay was found dead about 10 o'clock last evening by a Mrs. Sullivan, on the landing of the second floor of No. 19 Cherry-street. The deceased is believed to have died in consequence of his intemperate habits, as no marks of violence were found about him.

Black Art for the Million.—Mr. Louis Hainbujer gave his initial entertainment as magician, wizard, necromancer, and what not, at the Hope Chapel last evening. The audience, which was large and highly respectable, was hugely delighted with the novelty and inexplicability of the various feats.

Pfromer Admitted to Bail.—John D. Pfromer was admitted to bail yesterday morning by Justice Sutherland, Thomas Bauchle and Louis Gross being his security in the amount of $3,000.

Police Reports.

A VARIETY OF OFFENCES.

Justice Osborne committed Martin Hines for snatching a purse containing $30 from Mrs. J. C. Wheeler, of No. 45 Grove-street. Robert Whitehill, a clerk at No. 356 Canal-street, caught the rogue.... Lawrence Cesneras was committed by the same official, despite his earnest protestations of innocence, for having stolen $30 from Jacob La Viera, a fellow-boarder at No. 3 Catharine-street.... John H. Bache, whose office is in Thirty first-street, near Broadway, was arrested on a warrant issued by Judge Russell, and required by Justice Brennan to find $1,000 bail, on a charge of dealing in lottery tickets.... In consequence of the illness of counsel, the trial of Mr. Thomas J. Mundy, Ex-Assemblyman, and Clerk in one of the District Courts, was postponed. He is charged with having acted in an unbecoming manner toward a little girl. An additional surety of $500 was required of Mr. Mundy. The Police Justices declared it to be their purpose to send the matter before the Grand Jury.... The man who committed an assault upon a young woman in Mercer-street is no relative of Hon. Christian B. Woodruff, Assemblyman from the Third District, whose brother he claimed to be.

Coroners' Inquests.

SUDDEN DEATHS.

Coroner Schirmer held an inquest at No. 248 East Twelfth-street, on the body of Margaret Keenan, a little girl 2½ years old, who died in consequence of burns received by her clothes catching fire. ....Hugh Barnes was found dead in an out-house in the rear of Mr. Geo. Wood's store, No. 369 South-street. Although it is probable that he died from natural causes, an inquest will be held.

CITY GOVERNMENT.

THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

THE CENTRAL PARK RESOLUTION RETURNED—TOMPKINS MARKET TO BE STRENGTHENED—RECEPTION OF THE JAPANESE EMBASSY.

At the meeting of the Board of Aldermen last evening, the resolution in relation to making an additional issue of Central Park Improvement Stock, received from the Councilmen at the previous meeting, and referred to the Finance Committee, was recalled and returned to the Councilmen, who had failed to lay it over in accordance with the rule.

The President announced the following Special Committee to represent the Board in the Sanitary Convention about to convene at Boston: Aldermen Starr, Cornell, Genet, Boole, Farley, Platt and Brady.

A communication was received from the Comptroller transmitting the assessment list for flagging in Canal-street, confirmed March 28, 1860, on account of an error. The communication was referred to the Committee on Assessments.

A communication was received from the Street Commissioner, in which was the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Street Commissioner be and is hereby authorized to place an additional backing to the brick piers supporting the trusses of Tompkins Market, and that the sum of $3,800 is appropriated therefor, the same to be done without contract.

It was referred to the Committee on Repairs and Supplies.

A communication was received from the Comptroller, transmitting a certified copy of an act of the Legislature, passed April 14, 1860, authorizing the Corporation to borrow money to extend the Croton Water Works. He also sent in a certified copy of the act authorizing the Board of Supervisors to raise money by tax for City purposes, and to regulate the expenditure thereof; and of the act to provide for funding and paying the floating debt of the corporation of the City of New-York.

A resolution was adopted, thanking the members of the Legislature who stood up manfully in defence of the rights of the City during the late session.

The communication of the Mayor in relation to the reception of the Japanese Embassy came in from the Councilmen and was read. The resolution appropriating $25,000 for the reception of the Embassy was laid over.

Alderman Boole asked and received permission to withdraw his resolution reducing the salary of the Auditor in the Finance Department. He said that when he offered the resolution he was under the impression that the Auditor was in Albany working against the interests of the Aldermen and the City; but since that he had been in Albany himself, and was satisfied that he was there working for the Aldermen and the City.

A communication was received from the City Inspector, giving a statement of the expenditures of the quarter ending March 31, 1860:

On account of Salaries	$21,544 43
On account of Cleaning Streets	77,027 04
On account of Cleaning Markets	2,070 00
On account of Contingencies	3,401 47
On account of Abatements of Nuisances	70 40

It was ordered on file, and then the Board adjourned.

BOARD OF COUNCILMEN.

WORK FOR THE STREET COMMISSIONER AND CITY INSPECTOR—FUNDS FOR THE CENTRAL PARK—THANKS TO THE CITY'S DEFENDERS IN THE LEGISLATURE.

The Board of Councilmen last evening adopted a resolution calling upon the Street Commissioner to report what piers are encumbered, and by what authority; also to require the Harlem Railroad Company to run their small cars to Forty-second-street; also calling upon the City Inspector to report a list of employes, with their salaries, and whether any of them are engaged in other occupations under the City or General Government—and if so, what positions.

A communication was received from City Inspector Delevan stating, in reply to a resolution of the Board, that there is at present no acting Superintendent of Markets, and that all complaints of the violation of the ordinance relative to markets should be made to the City Inspector at his office.

Engine Company No. 38 was allowed to retain their old engine as a reserve. The same privilege was extended to No. 20—both measures being in concurrence with the Aldermen.

The report authorizing the raising of $250,000 for the Central Park Commissioners, came back from the Board of Aldermen in consequence of an alleged informality—the paper not having been legally laid over.

Councilman Pinckney renewed the motion made by him last meeting, that the interest should be paid quarterly out of the Sinking Fund. The motion was lost by a vote of 3 to 15. The report was then re-adopted. Councilman Pinckney explained his negative vote by stating that he was not willing to fasten the payment of interest on the present instead of on the coming generation.

A resolution came up from the Board of Aldermen, awarding the thanks of the Common Council to those members who defended so manfully the rights of the City during the late session of the Legislature.

Councilman Lent remarked that the names of the patriots ought to be mentioned. Some had retired to their merchandise, some to their farms, and some probably to pay off the mortgages on their farms. [Laughter.] Doubtless all the members who voted for the railroad bills supposed they were defending the interests of the City.

Councilman Pinckney thought the Republicans would be represented, as well as the Democrats, in that category of patriots.

The resolution was adopted.

The Board adjourned to Monday evening next, at 5 P. M.

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC CHARITIES.

WHO ARE THE FOUR COMMISSIONERS TO BE?

Proposals for the sewer in Reade-street, which were to have been opened yesterday, were deferred in consequence of the necessary absence of the Comptroller, who was deeply engrossed in the matter of appointing the four Commissioners of the Almshouse, authorized by the act of the Legislature. His office was besieged from "early morn to dewy eve," and a regular file of applicants in person or by proxy was in attendance, reminding one of a Post-office window on a steamer day. One gentleman left the presence of the Comptroller with such unmistakable evidences of satisfaction that spectators were on the eve of setting him down as an appointee, but to quote from the sage of "La Mancha"—"Soft words butter no parsnips," and as there is a possibility that the Comptroller might change his mind, the name is withheld—an act of gratuitous forbearance which will of course be duly recognized. Among the rumors floating for the day we caught the names of Moses H. Grinnell and Robert B. Minturn. Mr. Grinnell has retired from all active business after an honorable and decidedly successful career of more than two generations, and has declared his intention of passing some years in European travel, and this disposes of him. Mr. Minturn, his partner, was compelled, years ago, to leave the Commissioners of Emigration, by direction of his physicians, who detected a tendency to disease of the heart, and forbade any exciting occupation—and thus he must be counted out. The Comptroller has undoubtedly made up his mind as to the appointees, malgre the great crowd which infested his office yesterday; but as he has not as yet signified his pleasure, the community must remain in the dark. The appointments will doubtless be announced to-day, as the law requires that the new Commissioners shall assume office on the 20th inst.

CROTON DEPARTMENT.

A NEW FIRE HYDRANT.

Mr. J. L. Lowerre, of Pittsburgh, Penn., exhibited yesterday working models of a new fire hydrant, which has been in use in that city for some time, and which he hopes and seeks to have introduced here. The plan, which scarcely deserves the patent claimed for it, is very simple, being merely eight openings from one centre, thus enabling eight companies to attach their hose to a common hydrant—conditioned, however, that the company first placing this new hydrant will permit it, for it is intended that each engine shall carry one of these patent hydrants, and attach them to the ordinary hydrants, when they reach the scene of a conflagration—thus allowing eight companies to use the water from one hydrant. The New-York firemen are not remarkable for the readiness with which they interchange courtesies, and the idea of having eight streams from one source of supply would be rejected as absurd, or if adopted, would result in just as many fights. If any reader doubts this assertion, he has only to attend one fire, and watch the jealous care with which the hydrant first secured in guarded by the "first comers." Mr. Lowerre's principle is correct, but as the Fire Department is at present organized, its value will not be properly appreciated. Mr. Craven, the Chief Engineer, and Dr. Rollins, Water Purveyor, have decided to give it a trial, and when the first shall be laid, and a fair trial had, we shall chronicle the result.

COMPTROLLER'S OFFICE.

GALA DAY—PAYMENT OF BACK SALARIES.

The office of the Comptroller was yesterday enlivened by the presence of some hundreds of anxious expectants, to whom the City has been indebted for the last two months, commencing at Judges, and running down to clerks and messengers. The passage of the Tax Levy bill, and its signature by the Governor, enabled the Comptroller to pay off the back salaries for February and March, and the recipients were as well pleased as was the Comptroller, who has been daily dunned since February. The item of $80,000 inserted for the "Commissioners of Record," will only be paid after adjudication by the proper legal tribunals. Meanwhile the two million of unbound sheets, stored in Liberty-street, and which have cost over half a million of dollars, will remain intact, subject to the decision of the Courts. Among those who were jubilant at the payment of their salaries were the members of the Police force—a check for $100,000 having been drawn in favor of the Board of Commissioners, and late in the afternoon the respective amounts for the various Precincts were placed in the hands of the Captains, by whom the funds were disbursed to the needy subordinates.

POLICE COMMISSIONERS.

LIBERALITY OF COMMISSIONER BOWEN—THE SANITARY POLICE—NOTICE TO SUNDAY LIQUOR DEALERS—NEW RULE FOR POLICE SURGEONS.

A meeting of the Police Commissioners was held on Wednesday at the head-quarters in Broome-street, all the members present.

Commissioner Bowen asked and obtained leave to present to the Police such sums of money as he may receive as Acting-General Superintendent, to be expended in the purchase of useful books for the libraries of the Station-houses.

In compliance with the provision of the new police law relating to a sanitary police, the Board directed the appointment by the General Superintendent, of a sergeant and five patrolmen to act as a sanitary police, whose duty it shall be to visit and inspect, from time to time, the condition of ferry-boats, manufactories, slaughter-houses, and tenement-houses, and report upon their condition as regards cleanliness and safety.

Public notice was ordered to be given to all vendors of intoxicating liquors within the Metropolitan Police District, of the provision of the new law relating to their business. This provision relates to the sale of liquors on Sundays and election days, and inflicts a penalty of $50 fine for each violation of the law against selling or exposing for sale any liquors on that day.

A resolution was passed making the public surgeons responsible for all medical attendance required at their respective Station-houses, and requiring them to liquidate all bills that may be presented for medical services at said Station-houses by other physicians.

Adjourned to Friday at 12 M.

COLLECTION OF ASSESSMENTS.

MONTHLY RETURNS—AMOUNT IN THE HANDS OF THE COMPTROLLER.

The returns of J. Trotter, Esq., Collector of Assessments, show for the month of March the following figures, as vouched for by his payments to the Chamberlain:

For the week ending March 7	$6,846 07
For the week ending March 14	49,753 68
For the week ending March 21	13,362 53
For the week ending March 28	32,769 40
For the week ending March 31	3,659 73
Total	$106,409 41

The amount of assessments in arrears, and which are transferred to the Clerk of Arrears, is $214,647 06, leaving a balance in the Comptroller's hands of $179,285 46, with which to pay off trust accounts. If this be added to the monthly receipts of the Collector of City Revenue, parties holding City bonds will feel well assured of the prompt payment of their interest.

BALLOON ASCENSION FROM PALACE GARDEN—PROF. WISE GOES UP IN HIS NEW BALLOON GANYMEDE.

Prof. Wise, Sen., the veteran aeronaut, made a successful ascension, in his new balloon Ganymede, yesterday afternoon, from Palace Garden. The announcement drew a large crowd of the curious to the vicinity, a majority of whom, as usual, availed themselves of the neighboring roofs and upper windows, to enjoy the spectacle gratis. The balloon, which is the smallest the Professor has ever used, is 27 by 29 feet in diameter, and bears the inscription Ganymede, with the mottos "Extra Flammantia," "Menia Mundi," on its sides, the name being in large letters. It is not quite half as large as his balloon Jupiter, and contains, when fully inflated, about 10,000 cubic feet of gas. It is made of light cambric linen, and is coated with a varnish of the Professor's own invention. It is only capable, when inflated with common gas, of sustaining one person, besides the necessary ballast, while, with pure hydrogen gas, it would easily support two persons of the Professor's weight. The basket was a neat one, made of the usual material, about 3½ by 2½ feet square, and 20 inches deep. A grappling of some 15 pounds was deposited in the bottom of the basket, to which was securely attached the end of a small line, some ten fathoms in length, of three strands, and made of linen thread, very strong and pliable. The netting was of strong cotton twine of a small size, the basket ropes attached to the circular hoop being of hemp, about the size of an ordinary clothes-line. The balloon was placed upon a raised platform in the middle of the open space, and the process of inflation commenced at twenty minutes before three P. M., the gas being conducted from the main in the street through a varnished cloth hose, six inches in diameter. Prof. La Mountain and Mr. Conner assisting. While the spectators were waiting for the time announced for the ascension, the band beguiled the time by playing lively music. At 4 o'clock the Professor, seeing that the audience was still small, but that the quarters were gradually coming in, asked for fifteen or twenty minutes' delay, which was unanimously granted. At 4½ o'clock the order for unloosing the cords from the sand bags was given; three of the smaller sacks were deposited in the basket as ballast, and an extra coat as protection against the cold. The Professor himself then stepped in, holding in his hands two miniature flags. At 4¾ P. M., the wind having slightly lulled, the only rope which held the balloon was severed by the Professor's knife, and the Ganymede rose slowly but majestically into space amid the cheers of the multitude. Prof. Wise now mounted the sides of the basket, holding by the hoop, and waved his little flags, the crowd from below and from the house-tops cheering vociferously. In a moment more the balloon rose above the houses, and was caught by the fresh southeast wind, which carried it rapidly toward the northwest. At the altitude of about half a mile it took a southerly current, and on going half a mile higher, during which the aeronaut was seen to discharge considerable ballast, he struck a current which carried him slowly toward the East River. When last seen, he was passing in a northeast direction, towards Flushing, and it was believed that he would alight, before dark, somewhere on Long Island.

The ascension was perfectly successful, and gave great satisfaction to those who witnessed it. Among the spectators were noticed Prof. Lowe, who is said to be about to revive the transatlantic balloon scheme. Mr. Barnum was also present, and kept the people in good humor by an occasional joke. On Saturday next, at the same hour, Mr. Augustus Conner, a pupil of Prof. Wise, is announced to make an ascension in the same balloon at the same place.

BROOKLYN INTELLIGENCE.

Brooklyn Mulcted.—William H. Yerks, in the Circuit Court, yesterday, recovered a verdict against the City of Brooklyn of $250, for damages incurred through the neglect of the city in not keeping the streets in proper repair. The plaintiff, who is a hackman, one night last Winter drove into a ditch at the corner of Lafayette and Franklin avenues.

The Knife.—William Stanley, keeper of a porter-house on the corner of Harrison and Columbia streets, was severely stabbed on Wednesday night by a sailor named Thomas Reid, upon attempting to put him out of his place for refusing to pay for a drink of liquor. Reid was arrested by the police, and committed to await the result of the injuries to Stanley.

More Diseased Meat.—Meat Inspector McLear, at about 3 o'clock yesterday morning, seized upon eight quarters more of diseased meat, which was ready to be shipped to the New-York market.

Body.—The body of an unknown man was picked up in the East River yesterday, off the foot of South Eighth-street. Coroner Murphy was notified.

The Jersey City Murder.

NEW DEVELOPMENS—A JEWELER IN NEWARK SUPPOSED TO BE IMPLICATED.

The excitement in Jersey City regarding the recent mysterious murder has greatly abated, but as the papers have carried the particulars to other places, persons have come from distant localities to view the head of the unfortunate woman. Yesterday and day before, some individuals from Philadelphia called at Dr. [illegible]'s residence fearing that they might be able to identify the remains. They were unable to do so however.

The most promising clue yet obtained, and one which it is hoped will ultimately lead to the detection of the guilty party, some of the detectives attached to the Metropolitan Police are following up. A day or two ago a lady residing in Charlton-street, in company with her son, viewed the body. The two declared that the features, so far as they were distinguishable, bore a striking resemblance to those of a young English girl who had boarded in their house for two years past. Lately she left the house in a mysterious manner, and nothing has since been heard of her. It is stated that a young man, a jeweler by trade, had been paying her marked attention for some months. A short time ago she wrote him a letter saying that "if he did not immediately call upon her it would be the last he would hear from her." This note she intrusted to a boy, charging him particularly to see the young man. The boy acted according to his instructions, but the girl received no reply to her message, and some time during the course of the next night she disappeared, leaving all her clothes in her room. The girl was of English origin and was about 23 years of age.

The detectives are now in Newark hunting up the whereabouts of the young man in question.

A likeness found concealed in the Railroad dépôt at Newark, it is supposed, has some connection with the mystery.

MEXICAN AFFAIRS.

The Havana Press on the Troubles at Vera Cruz—Protest of Gen. Miramon—He Demands the Release of Marin, and the Surrender of the Captured Vessels.

The Diario de la Marina, of Havana, condemns in the strongest terms the capture of Marin's steamers. It claims that the presence of Gen. Llave on board the Indianola was proof of the complicity of the authorities of Vera Cruz. The only possible way in which it thinks trouble can be avoided will be by the United States Government apologizing for the course taken by Capt. Turner, and paying a handsome indemnity to the injured parties. That this will be the ultimate issue of the affair the Diario thinks probable from the fact that the crews of the vessels in question have been released.

The following is the text of Gen. Miramon's protest in regard to the capture of the steamers. It appears in the Diario:

National Palace,
Mexico, March 29, 1860.

To the Secretary of State of the United States of America:

The undersigned, Minister pro tem. for the foreign relations of this Republic, has received express orders from the President to inform the Government of the United States of the following interesting and serious facts:

Two ships of war, intended for the service of the Government of Mexico, sailed from Havana at the commencement of the present month, for the port of Vera Cruz, and on the 6th inst. they made Anton Lizardo, where they anchored without any inconvenience. The first of these vessels, the General Miramon, carried the Mexican flag, and the second, the Marques de la Habana, was under Spanish colors: they were both loaded with provisions, munitions, armament, and other articles of war, destined for the use of the army of the east, encamped in front of Vera Cruz, and was ready to commence military operations upon this place. In the afternoon of the same day, Capt. Jarvis, under pretence of ascertaining the nationality of the vessels anchored at Anton Lizardo,—as he himself states in his note of the 16th instant to H. E., the President,—sent Commander Turner, with the ship-of-war Saratoga, to reconnoitre and declare the character of those vessels. In carrying out these orders, as Capt. Jarvis asserts, the ships opened fire upon the Saratoga, occasioning the loss of some lives.

The undersigned has since received impartial and true accounts of the occurrences that have taken place in Mexican waters, from which he deduces, without any manner or doubt, that the plea of ascertaining the nationality of the vessels was only an excuse which was purposely put into practice, in order to provoke a combat between the American naval forces and those of the steamers under the command of Gen. Marin. This is proved by the fact that Capt. Jarvis surprised Marin at midnight, at which hour neither was it possible to make any legal investigation of the color of a flag, nor had he any right to make any such investigation in regard to vessels in Mexican waters, and in the territorial sea of the Republic. The means that were employed undoubtedly produced the combat which was intentionally sought. A conflict took place between the Saratoga and the ships of Gen. Marin, and lasted until the latter found himself obliged to submit to the superiority of the assailing vessels, after having honorably defended the Mexican flag, and sustained it with courage until the latest moment. Capt. Jarvis took arbitrary possession of the ships, made a prisoner of Gen. Marin, and has taken him, with his prizes, to New-Orleans.

These acts of scandalous violence, this unheard of provocation, whose enormity has been sealed with the innocent blood of several victims, have taken place, and been perpetrated in the bosom of the peace that exists between Mexico and the United States. The events that have just happened in the territorial sea of the Republic are a direct attack upon the independence of Mexico; are a violation of the most sacred rights of sovereignty, and an aggression so piratical that they should bring down upon the two countries the most lamentable consequences, if it were possible to presume that Capt. Jarvis acted under the instructions of the American Government.

The undersigned most deeply regrets this occurrence, so much the more unexpected as it is contrary in its nature to the friendship that exists between Mexico and the United States, and to the treaty in which rests the mutual security of the two nations. Nevertheless, the undersigned is consoled by the persuasion that Capt. Jarvis has, on his own responsibility, overstepped the instructions of his Government, guided only by a daring zeal, and perhaps urged onwards by the insidious instigations of the demagogical party that has sought foreign aid and help, even at the cost of the integrity of the country and the independence of the county.

In consequence, the Government of the United States, acting in accordance with the sentiments of rectitude and National honor, will not hesitate to manifest the highest indignation for the piratical acts perpetrated in the Mexican waters, by Capt. Jarvis, against the ships of the Government of Mexico, abusing the superiority of the forces at his command, and taking advantage also of a nocturnal surprise.

The American Government will also, with that promptness that justice and good faith demand, issue the most peremptory orders that Gen. Marin shall be at once placed at liberty, and that the ships, with their cargoes, shall be delivered up to the functionaries.

Editors of the New-York Illustrated News:

Gentlemen: At the request of your artist, Mr. Nast, I am happy to answer your letter of introduction, he wishing to satisfy you that he is occupied at the desired locality, (where we are pursuing the training of J. C. Heenan.) Any assistance we can render him, and through him to you, shall be cheerfully done. His sketches, made to-day, are very truthful.

Newmarket, March 18, 1860.

To the Editor of the New-York Illustrated News:

The sketches taken by Mr. Nast (your artist) of Sayers, his house, &c., are considered by us to be very correct, and we are pleased that you have sent so able an artist.

Yours, Sir, ROBT. FULLER.

A SECOND LETTER FROM THE "BOY'S" AGENT.

London, March 27, 1860.

EDITORS OF THE NEW-YORK ILLUSTRATED NEWS:

GENTLEMEN: AT THE REQUEST OF MR. NAST, WHOSE MOTIVES I CAN READILY IMAGINE, I INFORM YOU THAT NO OTHER ARTIST, EITHER ENGLISH OR AMERICAN, EVER VISITED OUR QUARTERS. BE SHOWED ME A COPY OF A NEW-YORK ILLUSTRATED SHEET; THE TRAINING FEATURES ARE AMUSINGLY IMAGINARY. HEENAN NEVER, DURING HIS TRAINING, HAS UNDERGONE SUCH TORTURE.

RESPECTFULLY, YOURS,
FRED. FALKLAND.

From the London Daily News, March 15.

The New-York Illustrated News has sent a special correspondent and a distinguished artist to England, to attend on the international encounter between Heenan and Sayers, and give correct views or descriptions of the training-grounds, the mode of training the pugilists, the sporting places in England, with faithful portraits of Heenan and Sayers, and of their seconds.

From Keene's Bath Journal, March 24.

The daily papers state that the "Benecia Boy," who has for some time past been in training for the national pugilistic match with Tom Sayers, the English Champion, at Harnham, near Salisbury, has just left that place for the purpose of prosecuting his preparations in some more retired locality. [We believe within a few miles of Bath.] The New-York Illustrated News has sent a special correspondent and a distinguished artist to England, to attend on the proposed international encounter between Heenan and Sayers.

From the Sporting Life of London, March 21.

Mr. Nast, a very talented and young artist attached to the New-York Illustrated News, has been busily engaged in sketching everybody and everything at Newmarket in connection with Sayers. The artist has also paid a visit to Heenan, and been similarly engaged. The sketches, which are extremely clever, will be forwarded to America at once for publication.
